Republican Congressmen Insist On Registration Measure For Communists

By GLENN M. GREEN
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Republicans in both houses of Congress dug in today for an all-out fight to force registration of all Communists in the United States.

Sen. Mundt (R) S.D., said the administration must either adopt the principles of the bill he is sponsoring along with Sen. Ferguson (R) Mich., or outlaw the Communist party. Mundt said the only alternative is to "continue to do nothing".

Meanwhile, the House moved to tighten national security amid these developments:

Mundt-Nixon Provision

1. The un-American Activities Committee decided to write in some of the principal parts of the Mundt-Nixon Anti-Subversive Bill in a new measure which will be sent to the floor.

2. Chairman Cellar (D) N. Y., of the Judiciary Committee, said he intends to incorporate some of the President's milder security recommendations into legislation and begin public hearings next week.

The Republican Policy Committee has served notice that it stands solidly behind the Mundt-Ferguson measure and will insist on the registration feature in any kind of anti-subversive legislation that the Democratic leadership sends to the floor.

The Democratic Policy Committee is working on an overall, wrap-up bill, but it is known that the administration feels any attempt to list all Communists will drive the party underground.

Mundt declared today:

"Any bill must identify the Communists, must disclose their activities by labeling their propaganda and revealing the sources of their revenue and must curtail their activities by keeping them out of the government.

Either Do Or Don't

"Our bill does all those things. The administration must either

Tax War Profits 'After Election'

By FELIX COTTEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—President Truman said today he is not now asking for a new excess profits tax because the time to talk sensibly about a long-range tax program is after the election jitters are over.

The President made it clear at his news conference that when Congress meets next January he will seek enactment of a program which Treasury Secretary Snyder has said is being drawn up in an effort to "tax the profits out of war."

No Need Now

But the Chief Executive said there is no need to add now to his emergency recommendation for a five billion dollar interim tax boost, because the stop-gap program he has proposed is simple, can be approved quickly and will help halt inflation.

Mr. Truman added that at his direction a thorough study is being made of tax-structure revision yielding much heavier returns to the government.

He said there is no doubt that eventually a new excess profits levy will be enacted, but reiterated that he has no plans to seek it now.

Senate Finance Committee members meanwhile predicted approval of the five billion dollar interim tax increase asked by the President to help finance the Korean war and global defense program.

To Name McCracken Legion Commander

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—(INS)—Michael Onze of Olyphant, Pa., Wednesday withdrew his nomination for state commander of the American Legion, leaving Joseph McCracken of Kingston unopposed for the post.

Election of McCracken, a past vice commander, now is assured by the 7,000 delegates and alternates to the state convention which opened Wednesday in Philadelphia.

A Legion spokesman said it would be "very unusual" for additional nominations to be made as most candidates announce well in advance of the convention.

Onze had been the only pre-convention opponent for McCracken, bidding to succeed Walter A. Alessandroni as head of the Pennsylvania Department of the Legion.

UN Hopes To End Red Filibuster By New Proposal

Meet Informally Today With Delegate Malik

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Aug. 10—U.N. Security Council members meet informally today with Soviet Delegate Jacob Malik and present him with "certain new proposals" for ending the Russian filibuster on Korea.

Malik last night agreed "in principle" to show up. Western delegates are fully aware that his actual appearance for the informal meeting still depends on instructions received in the meantime from the Kremlin.

The regular meeting of the Security Council for a showdown battle between Malik and the Western group on the procedural deadlock is slated to follow the informal meeting.

Gave Malik Time

Last Tuesday, U.S. Representative Warren R. Austin demanded—and got—an adjournment of the council to give Malik forty-eight hours time to get new instructions from his government for seating the South Korean delegate.

Nine members of the 11-nation body met for three hours yesterday at the British Delegation offices in Manhattan and canvassed ways and means of countering Malik's refusal as chairman to obey the rules. Yugoslavia sent its regrets and Russia was not invited.

After extensive discussion behind closed doors, Arne Sunde of Norway was appointed to telephone Malik and request his attendance at a private meeting to-

Retail Prices Increase 2.7

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS)—A special government survey showed today that retail food prices went up 2.7 per cent from the start of the Korean war to July 31.

A hopeful sign for consumers was disclosed, however, in the fact that the upward trend tapered off in the last half of July and some prices started falling.

Ewan Clague, chief of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, released the results of a study made on grocery costs in 13 cities July 31. It covered 25 different foods.

From June 15 to the end of July, retail food prices sharply increased in all cities except Pittsburgh where there was only a slight fractional change.

Bread, coffee and sugar prices hit new record highs. Bread went up four per cent after remaining stationary from March, 1949, to mid-June 1950. Coffee went up seven per cent and sugar six per cent.

Bacon soared six per cent, hamburger three per cent, butter one per cent and eggs 11 per cent.

Predict Passage Of 'Interim' Tax

Bill Calls For Large Boost Of Income Taxes

By FELIX COTTEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Senate finance committee members predicted today that the tax-writing group will approve the five billion dollar "interim" tax increase proposed by President Truman.

This will call for inceases averaging about 16 per cent in individual income tax rates and a boost in the maximum normal tax on corporations of from 38 to 45 per cent.

The finance committee will start work today on proposals for an increase in the corporation income tax. Members forecast adoption of the 45 per cent maximum rate recommended by the administration.

A move is also in prospect to attach excess profits tax on corporations to the bill despite announcement of Chairman George (D) Ga., that it is an "interim bill or nothing", and that an excess profits tax is ruled out at this time.

Excess Profits

Sen. Connally (D) Texas, declared he assumed that a proposal for an excess profits tax will be offered in the finance committee.

"If somebody else does not offer it," he declared, "I will."

Connally said he favored an ex-

House Readies Control Bill

By SAM FOGG
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(INS)—The House is ready today to stamp final approval on a bill giving President Truman immediate homefront economic controls and sweeping stand-by powers to freeze prices and wages and impose rationing.

Final House passage will send the measure to the Senate which begins floor debate on the bill aimed at channeling the nation's defense efforts and curbing inflation during the Korean fighting.

A confused stalemate in the House ended yesterday when a bipartisan formula giving the Chief Executive almost a free hand in clamping on wage-price ceilings and rationing was accepted.

Republicans accepted the compromise formula written along the lines suggested by Mr. Truman to line up behind moves aimed at curbing the immediate economic control authority he requested.

Final controversy was to be centered on two GOP-sponsored amendments:

One would limit his authority over private real estate credit controls to that required for new construction.

The other would eliminate a provision allowing the government to regulate speculation on the commodity exchanges.

Taylor's Defeat Seems Apparent

Idaho Senator Seems Loser By About 1000

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 10.—(INS)—Roles were reversed today for Sen. Glen H. Taylor and the man he defeated for the Democratic senatorial nomination in 1944.

Taylor appeared doomed to narrow defeat for the nomination as results of the Idaho primary election became nearly complete. The winner was former Senator D. Worth Clark, who lost to Taylor by a handful of votes in the primary six years ago.

With only small scattered precints unreported, Taylor was 1,100 votes behind Clark. Election officials declared the late-reporting precincts too small to change the outcome.

Ran with Wallace

The cowboy-singing Taylor waged the same kind of campaign that won him the nomination and the election in 1944. But in the meantime he had run for vice president with Henry Wallace on the Progressive party ticket.

In the Republican primary, Sen. Henry Dworshak, a conservative, continued to pile up a heavy lead after two opponents conceded his election. Dworshak seeks election to the last four years of the Senate post to which he aws appointed.

Fire Loss $3000 At Lumber Plant

Two alarms from Box 18 called six fire companies to the New Castle Lumber and Supply Co., 425 West Grant street, at 6:37 p.m., Wednesday, where fire was found in the warehouse in the rear of the display room. Damage of around $3,000 was done to the building and contents, Chief H. F. Steinbrink stated.

The blaze is believed to have started from spontaneous combustion among building supply materials, and looked like it might assume serious proportions, a second alarm being sounded when officials of the fire department turned in a second alarm, bringing three additional companies to the scene.

The fire was soon brought under control, and afterwards a man was kept at the scene for several hours to see that it did not break out again.

Frills Are Out, Sen. Myers Tells American Legion

No Luxury Goods During War Time

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—(INS)—Sen. Francis J. Myers (D) Pa., warned today that the nation will have to "put a thinner coat of icing on the civilian cake" while building a total war footing.

Myers told the 32nd annual convention of the Pennsylvania American Legion:

"Korea has demonstrated for everyone that the communists are foolhardy enough to gamble with world peace by risking aggression against a free neighbor—and that they may be foolish enough to risk the peace elsewhere.

May Be Others

"It is entirely possible that the Kremlin may be insane enough to seek out what they consider another soft spot in the defense around the iron curtain.

U. S. Hammer Blows Drive Enemy Back; Still Has Strength

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
(Far Eastern Director, I. N. S.)

TOKYO, Aug. 11—(Friday)—A trap was snapped Thursday night on disintegrating Red troops in Korea's southern sector when two of three American columns driving on Chinju linked forces in the eastern environs of that major enemy base.

The trap was closed when the two U. S. columns formed a junction at Taeshen-Ni, sealing a corridor between the American troops through which thousands of Communists had been retreating westward.

It was not known how many of the Reds escaped before the trap closed on the reeling invaders.

General Douglas MacArthur announced early Friday that the Reds were preparing defenses on high ground just east of Chinju as U. S. Army troops drove to within sixe miles of the town.

Marines were moving on Chinju after overrunning Kosong.

In the central sector, U. S. troops "wiped out" a Communist bridgehead south of Waegwan and northwest of pivotal Taegue, killing 300 Reds and capturing 220 others, an 8th Army field communique announced.

Regain Bridgehead

Just north of Waegwan, however, the invaders regained a bridgehead on the east bank of the Naktong, pouring fresh troops and tanks across the river, but were immediately counter-attacked by South Korean forces.

Farther down the Naktong, North Korean troops unleashed a new attack southeastward from another bridgehead within 18½ miles west of the Taegu-Pusan railroad in an effort to cut that lifeline artery.

And on the east coast, the invaders recaptured Yongdok and swung a flanking column inland around that anchor port of Chigye, eight mileswest-northwest of Pohang, 35 miles northeast of Taegu and 65 miles from the entry port of Pusan.

The southern part of the enemy's invasion front verged on collapse the the U. S. Army's fifth and 35th Regimental combat teams joined forces at Taeshen-Ni, six miles east of enemy-held high ground protecting Chinju.

The Taeshen-Ni meeting between the central and northern columns of the three-pronged American push on Chinju was announced at the U. S. 8th Army's front headquarters Thursday night.

East of Hub

American combat patrols already had thrust within four miles east of the big hub from which the Communists had launched their now-reversed push along Korea's southern rim toward all-important Pusan.

Along the south wing of the triple-pronged American offensive the 5th U. S. Marine regiment thrust "leading elements in Kosong, which is an advance of 12 miles," the 8th Army bulletin said.

Kosong, a four-way road center, lies 20 miles southeast of Chinju. Because they met stronger resistance than was encountered by the other U. S. units in the westward offensive, the Marines' advance has been slower than that of the 5th and 35th Army Regimental combat teams.

The 5th RCT pushed west along the center and the 35th along the northern side of the triple-pronged offensive before they swerved toward each other to linkup at Taeshen-Ni and continue the four-day-old advance.

Bombers Roam North Of 38th

Heaviest Assault On Korean Plants

By BERNARD KAPLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, Aug. 10.—The Korean War's heaviest aerial assault was unleashed today when 625 tons of bombs were dropped on targets in North Korea by the largest armada of U. S. B-29s yet sent over the invaders' homeland.

Announcing the massive attack, Gen. Douglas MacArthur declared tonight that approximately 70 of the Superfortresses cascaded more that 400 tons of explosives on three targets in the industrial area of Wonsan, 80 miles above the 38th parallel border.

Strategic Targets

Other B-29s unloaded more than 200 tons of bombs on "strategic interdiction targets" in the enemy's "transportation network north of the 38th parallel," according to MacArthur's announcement.

The United Nations supreme commander's communique, issued at 8:30 Thursday night (6:30 a. m. EDT), said the attacks were executed "under good weather conditions."

He said the Superfort raiders, winging over North Korea from bases in Japan and on Okinawa island, encountered "very little" anti-aircraft fire.

They set two new air records for the Korean conflict. It was the biggest force of bombers ever sent over the Korean war theater. And the 1,250,000 pounds of explosives comprised the heaviest bomb load yet dumped on targets in Korea in a single day.

The assault therefore raised the

TO HEAR RATE CASE

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10.—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Superior Court meets in Pittsburgh today to hear arguments on a proposed increase of street car and bus fares in the Pittsburgh district.

The Pittsburgh Railways company and the city of Pittsburgh are the principle opponents in the case.

The Public Utility Commission approved the increases last month.

The proposed rate schedule would keep trolley tokens at five for 60 cents, adding a 3-cent charge for transfers, or a straight 15 cents cash. Bus fares would sell at $1.50 for ten tickets or 20 cents cash.

SERVICE BATTERY, 229th, WINS TROPHY

Major Alfred F. Barnes (right), C.O. of the 229th, congratulates Capt. Leroy Ross (lef) and the men of Service Battery on winning the Brig. Gen. Brenton Q. Wallace award at Indiantown Gap. Service Battery of the 229th Field Artillery took the Unit Inspection trophy for being the most efficient service battery unit in the 28th Division. First Lt. Charles A. Pollack (to the left of Major Barnes), second in command of Service Battery, looks on.

Considered among the best of Pennsylvania's famed 28th Infantry division are certain batteries of the 229th Field artillery with headquarters in New Castle.

And the 229th can prove it.

Last Saturday the service battery of the 229th, comprised mostly of men from New Castle, won the Brigadier General Brenton G. Wallace trophy for being one of the outstanding batteries at the Indiantown Gap summer maneuvers.

This group has now been alerted, along with the rest of the 28th division, and plans to enter active federal service in early September.

The Wallace trophy is one of the hardest earned awards in camp outside of the General Dwight D. Eisenhower prize, which is awarded to the best unit in the Pennsylvania National guards.

Retired Commander

General Wallace, a retired commander of the 28th division, designated that the large trophy in his name be given every year on a permanent basis to a unit that excels in inspections, condition of equipment, troop performance, military courtesy and bearing, and overall camp activity.

The local service battery proved that it had it. Second in the con-

Oil Refinery

The big Chosen oil refinery was the chief of three main targets struck at Wonsan, a major port on North Korea's east coast.

Several vital rail and highway bridges also were blasted in strategic centers north of the 38th parallel boundary.

The record Superfort strike came on the heels of an announcement from Air Force Headquarters in Tokyo that the Communists have lost more than twice as many planes as the Americans.

The spokesman said U. S. Far East Air Forces have lost 36 planes during their continuous aerial onslaught which reached the 46th consecutive day Thursday.

He reported 84 Communist planes destroyed either in the air or on the ground.

An additional 31 American planes have been damaged in combat.

These figures do not include losses by the Royal Australian Air Force, but these are known to be light.

Thursday's record B-29 assault came after a 100 ton smash Wednesday against the enemy's transportation network on the North Korean east coast. More than 14 important bridges were reported knocked out in the area in the last five days.

Superforts were joined by B-26s, which concentrated on bridges near the battlelines on the central front, and F-82s which strafed military targets along the vital Naktong river defense line.

Truman Is Refused Speculation Power

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS)—The House today refused to give President Truman authority to regulate commodity speculation during the Korean war.

It did so by voting 140 to 103 to strike out of the President's economic controls bill the power he asked to establish margin requirements for dealings in corn, wheat, cotton, soybeans and other farm products.

The move was accomplished on an amendment offered by Rep. Cooley (D) N. D., chairman of the House agriculture committee.

day to receive "certain new proposals" for ending the procedural impasse. There was no official indication whether this Western move represented an ultimatum or learned toward compromise.

Reliable information indicates, however, that the Western group has decided to "slug it out" with Malik and fight a blow by blow propaganda battle through August in preference to drastic punitive measures.

It is believed that any other course, while giving more general satisfaction, would play into Russian hands and enable the Kremlin to exploit Western attitudes for Cominform propaganda purposes.

A significant development in the running battle between Russia and the Western group in the Security Council has been the slow but gradual switch from opposition or neutrality by India to one of definite if reluctant support of the United States. The same is true of most of the other members, whose diplomatic sensibilities were ruffled extensively by Malik's flat disregard of council rules.

Over-All Gains

Earlier, it was announced the Americans had scored over-all gains averaging three miles along the southern sector Thursday morning, hurling the foe into a full retreat bordering on a complete rout.

The Thursday night 8th Army announcement said that U. S. 1st Cavalry Division troops erased the enemy's Keapodong bridgehead on Thenaktong's east bank, some 11 miles northwest of Taegu, inland cornerstone of the United Nations front.

A few miles to the north, the communique related, troops of the South Korean 1st Division were locked in "close combat" with the Reds at the Opyongdong bridgehead, just above Waegwan.

The South Koreans, it was stated, captured three Russian-made North Korean tanks intact and were "trying to retrieve them." Six other enemy tanks, the bulletin said, were knocked out in the Opyongdong vicinity by American planes and artillery as well as South Korean infantry.

Earlier, it had been announced that the South Korean 1st Division had wiped out the Opyongdong bridgehead, inflicting at least 900 enemy casualties and flinging the surviving Reds back across the Naktong to its west bank.

But the Thursday night communique from Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker's 8th Army Field Headquarters, referring to the Opyongdong bridgehead battle, admmitted:

"The enemy infantry still retains potential strength for counter-attack."

Cross River

An International News Service War Correspondent, Frank Emery revealed that the Reds manage to push fresh infantry forces, along with seven additional tanks, across the river under cover of night's darkness.

Moreover, Emery said in a dispatch direct from the Naktong sector, the Communists have massed four divisions, totalling some 43,880 troops, and probably an armored brigade along the river's west bank to "further support" the Opyongdong bridgehead.

The correspondent's dispatch, received at 9:35 Thursday evening (7:35 a.m. EDT), said however that the South Korean 1st division was "vigorously" attacking the bridgehead along a 1,000-yard-wide front.

The Communists, Emery said, "clung desperately" to their strip along the Naktong's east shore after their foothold had been narrowed by the counter-attacking South Koreans to a depth of only 100 yards.

At Pugong-Ni, 26½ air miles south-southwest of Taegu, U. S. 24th Division troops were hit by Red troops that recoiled and then came back from American counter-attacks on an enemy bridgehead across the lower Naktong.

Fighting of steadily increasing ferocity raged in that sector as the Americans struggled to prevent the invaders from reaching the Pusan-Taegu railroad and slicing behind the embattled U. S. 1st Cavalry Division.

The Thursday night 8th Army bulletin said the 24th Division troops attacked the Red bridgehead "several times" but were "unable to dislodge the enemy from ridge positions near the river."

The communique explained that Red withdrawals in that sector, announced earlier Thursday by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, "appear now to have been tactical movements by the enemy for a counter-attack which was made this (Thursday) afternoon to the southeast."

pass a bill containing them, it must outlaw the Communist Party or it must continue its policy of not doing anything."

The Senate, meanwhile, rode ahead on the suversive-control program by unanimously passing and sending to the House bills that would:

1. Bar foreign Communists from entering the United States and permit the expulsion of subversives hiding behind diplomatic immunity. It would also lower the immigration bars against the people of any country which refuses or delays acceptance of an alien ordered to be deported from the U. S. if the alien entered this country on papers issued by the other country.

2. Provide the death penalty for spying in peacetime. The present top peacetime penalty of espionage is 30 years imprisonment.

President Truman yesterday signed a bill which would enable him to search foreign vessels before they enter U. S. harbors. The bill was aimed at preventing a "Trojan" ship from carrying a concealed atomic bomb into a U. S. port.

The 229th is now conducting a recruiting campaign to enlist 100 additional men before leaving for Camp Atterbury, Ind.

A parade and formal swearing in ceremony for the recruits is being planned for next week, probably on Wednesday evening.

"Our present plans (to halt the march of communism) visualize some belt-tightening. On the home front this will mean some self-discipline. I give you my solemn promise that we are going to stamp out profiteering."

Myers told the Legion delegates the nation needs "stand-by controls on prices and wages to provide the needed power to assign priorities and to allocate essential materials so we may be assured of meeting our defense needs." He added:

MR. PAULEY TESTIFIES

It was an extraordinary session of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Nobody—even some of the committee members themselves—seemed to know what was going on. The word was that there would be a "mystery witness."

When the witness appeared it turned out to be Ed Pauley, wealthy oilman, heavy contributor to Democratic coffers, pal of the president, and quasi diplomat. When Pauley started reading from a prepared text the gist of his recommendations made to the president in 1946 regarding Korea, Republican committee members sharpened their ears for a whitewash. But the former roving ambassador confounded both GOP and Democrats alike.

He told the senators that Americans were fighting and dying in Korea today because his specific recommendations, submitted in writing to Mr. Truman and the then Secretary of State Byrnes, were not followed through.

Mr. Pauley said that after his trip through Korea in 1946 he felt the United States would have trouble on its hands if it didn't compel Russia at once to live up to the Moscow declaration which was supposed to set up a single, representative Korean government through free elections. He had also urged a campaign to sell democracy and material aid to build a strong economy. Unofficially he had urged the president to threaten Moscow with war if the Reds didn't stick to their word.

In a reply the president had told Mr. Pauley we would do all right by "intensifying our present efforts to build up a democratic Korea." The harvest of those "present efforts" is a matter of common knowledge to all and of sorrow in a growing number of homes of American service men.

The controversy over the exact motives of Mr. Pauley (and of the person or persons who got him to testify) is still raging. Some feel the Defense department got him to talk in order to fix the blame for the Korean mess squarely on the State department.

Others think it is a calculated attempt to foil the "aggression" propaganda being dished out by the Russian delegate in the UN. Or maybe Mr. Pauley, on the basis of his correct estimate of the situation, is being groomed for a big job.

Mr. Pauley confirmed what is already known: That American postwar foreign policy and attmpts to play in the diplomatic big leages—with a few notable exceptions—have been dismal failures.

SQUIRRELS AND HOARDERS

Stories are being told about the people who are cashing in their U. S. savings bonds to buy goods they think are going to be scarce. The Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia says the redemption of bonds jumped 11 per cent last month. The extra selling came near equalling the buying of new bonds in the "Independence" drive.

Here is something truly shocking. This goes far beyond any case that can be made to justify hoarding as something squirrels do against a time of scarcity. The squirrel comparison is no good anyway. In nut-gathering time there are plenty of nuts to last all the squirrels all winter. The storing of nuts is not a matter of competition for goods in short supply, but strictly a provident act of setting up a savings account by doing some honest work.

People who have stored away government bonds have bought security for themselves while supporting their favorite way of life. When they sell these bonds and stock up on goods they are not only depriving other people of a share—but they are also weakening the structure they live in. No sensible squirrel would want his house to fall down, would he?

No, squirrels are not hoarders in the present sense. Squirrels are provident little creatures. Persons who jeopardize their own future as well as America's by selling savings bonds for hoarding purposes just don't show any resemblance to squirrels.

GOOD NEWS!

An American public which has been singularly patient in the face of continued military reverses and strategic retreats welcomes the word that its forces are now able to take the offensive in Korea. This turn of the tide is certain to give the man at the front no less satisfaction than it gives the people at home. It is not in the tradition of the United States Army to keep falling back.

Understanding as it does the conditions under which its soldiers are fighting—strange and difficult terrain and a numerically superior enemy—the American public will not expect too much too soon. It will be content if the march is steadily forward and if the North Koreans are given the same kind of punishment they have been dealing out to others.

It did seem that both troops and equipment were a long time getting to Korea. But apparently they are there now and with the certainty that still more are to come, Americans may look hopefully to the future.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Some sort of rearmament for western Germany of a nature and on a scale that will not arouse fears on the part of the French people is believed again under serious consideration by the western powers.

In announcing its own plans to create 15 new divisions as a defense measure with the aid of United States financing, the French government maintained continued opposition to the idea in principle.

But the Communist aggression in Korea has changed a great many fundamental concepts and it seems highly likely that somewhere in the vast measures of preparation now under way there is contained some plan to utilize German manpower.

Properly presented, the idea probably could be made to appeal to the French people.

Keep from War

To begin with, the whole French nation is determine to do all in its power to keep any new war off its own soil, at least from the viewpoint of ground battle.

It is therefore logical that the "armed frontier" should be moved far east of the Rhine.

This means one of two things. Either a huge French Army and other foreign force must be maintained in an area that can ill afford to support them or the Germans must be utilized at least as some sort of barrier or first line of defense against possible aggression.

The initial step is expected to be creation of a far larger police force than now exists.

This virtually became necessary months ago when the Soviet armed and equipped their "people's police" in a manner far exceeding normal police needs.

The mere size of this force has made it necessary for the United States and other Allied troops to spend much of their time as comparative adjuncts of the West German police.

This is bound to be a distastful job for American soldiers.

The same does not apply to the U. S. constabulary. This is a fast-driving, free-swinging, higly mobile force, proud of its fine record and trained to a superb degree.

Fine Job

It has done a magnificent job maintaining order in more than one difficult situation and has built up a spirit within its own ranks that has few parallels in peacetime.

But it is small and must patrol vast areas. The result is that when trouble threatens such as during the Communist Whitsuntide demonstrations in Berlin, the army, has had to do a police job and hold struggling crowds of civilians behind ropes when it has been rigorously trained for combat operations.

The suggestion has been made that to augment the Allied armies and free them for fighting tasks, Germans could be used for "service troops."

That, of course, would be ruinous for morale.

The Germans know full well what a deleterious effect such an assignment has. The late Field Marshal Erwin Rommel made such use of Italian forces to relieve his Afrikakorps in North Africa. What might have been good soldiers were made to work at menial tasks in what amounted to forced labor.

A solution satisfactory to all might be found in the assimilation of German troops into Allied ranks.

This, however, has its drawbacks as well. It is incongruous to think of any such merger while Germany and the west are still in a nominal state of war and will be until there is an armistice or a peace treaty.

German Contemptuous

Also once again there is the factor of German pride. The German soldier is traditionally contemptuous even of his Allies. It is difficult to imagine a satisfactory German corps without its own leadership and command.

The fact remains, however, that the essential rearmament of Europe is a colossal task. France feels she can produce only 15 additional divisions—perhaps 200 thousand men—a small number indeed when compared with the tremendous resources of Russia.

It is becoming increasingly evident that western Europe is trying to find some satisfactory means of utilizing German resources, in manpower as well as material. The task will have tremendous complications. But if successful, a Franco-German military pool might comprise a powerful deterrent to Soviet aggression.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

A TRAINING PROBLEM EVERY YOUNG MOTHER HAS TO FACE

It's amazing how early the youngster may learn to keep dry and tidy by day, if his mother takes well to routines, is very calm and poised and has skill at winning the child's cooperation.

But the average mother, since she lacks in these directions, should not begin regular toilet training of the child as early as she does. Her discouragements piling up, annoy her and the youngster so much that the ordeal may become very prolonged and trying.

Many a young mother begins the training too early or grows unduly vexed over her poor success because she hears some mothers brag about their early successes and she fears social disapproval of her seeming lag.

Early Success

Then an occasional mother starting off early with great success finds her youngster suddenly backsliding. She assumes that since he could use the "nursery chair" so well for a while his not cooperating now is sheer cussedness. Then, instead of emphasizing persuasive measures she resorts to shaming, scolding or even smacking him, thus stirring up still greater resistance in him. When such an impasse is reached she should, regardless of the child's age, let him go wet and soiled. She should feel no worry about the matter for a few weeks, after which she could go at it again with more assurance of success.

It's curious, too, at how early an age the child's mother may expect him to indicate his elimination needs. With what upset feelings she will say over and over again, "Why didn't you tell mother?" And he never gives an answer to this question. It means nothing in his young life. If the mother were wiser she would not ask this silly question. She wouldn't let herself express anger or even feel anger over his "accidents." She would meet them objectively and resolve to be more vigilant hencemorth so as to get him to the "nursery chair" at the psychological moment.

Sheer Perversity

The zenith of exasperation is reached when the youngster having been placed in vain on the "nursery chair" will, as soon as the diaper is put on him, perform at once. She's very sure this is sheer perversity in him. But it is not. All the conditions were then present to set off the voiding reflexes, since such conditions had practically always prevailed before when he voided.

A frequent problem with the tot two or older is his unreadiness to sit still long enough on the "chair" to succeed. To hold him there against strong resistance or to smack him may only make him more resistant.

He may usually be jumpy and jittery, in which event his mother might in quiet, gentile ways throughout the day for several weeks, calm him down. Also if she has effectively taught him apart from eating and elimination, the meaning of 'No,' this monosyllable used once quietly might keep him in the "nursery chair."

One Man's Opinion

By Walter Kiernan
(By International News Service)

Mr. Truman reportedly is working on a message to Congress concerning legislation to cope with Communists but this is not to be considered an endorsement of Sen. McCarthy.

The rule still is that if any enemies of America are to be denounced it must be by the right parties.

There's no decision yet on whether the president will tour the country this fall to alert us to the dangers we face or let the campaign run by itself.

Meanwhile, purchase by the Democrats of an eight-story building in Washington indicates that they finally have decided to stay on permanently.

Up 'til now they have been renting quarters and the Republicans have been saying hopefully "you'll be going soon . . . won't you?"

Anyway this takes care of the Democrats' office problems but the president is still looking for a Democratic House and could also use a Democratic Senate . . . preferably on a permanent basis.

Try And Stop Me

Long before thoughts of Hollywood ever entered his mind, Humphrey Bogart made pocket money playing twenty games of chess at one time in a Broadway shooting gallery while the regular player was out to lunch. Bogey won most of them, too.

A society lady who loved to go "slumming" dropped into a Bowery rathskeller one evening sporting a pendant the size of a billiard ball. A bar-fly tapped her on the shoulder and whispered, "If I was you, lady, I'd have that lanced."

A young relative of Professor Irwin Edman saw a big worm crawling in a garden, seized a knife from a table, and casually cut the worm in two. Irwin protested, "What made you do a thing like that?" The youngster explained, "The worm looked lonely. I thought he ought to have a friend."

BIRD SHOT, OR BAZOOKA, WHICH?

Danish Dobester Dependable

(By HENRY McLEMORE)

COPENHAGEN, DENMARK, Aug 10—If kidnapping weren't such a serious offense here in Denmark, and the average Dane weren't such a big, husky fellow, I'd be out today trying to put the snatch on one of them.

The one I'd like to take home with me is a horse handicapper for a morning paper who makes his selections under the heading, "B. T.'s Galop-Tips." He's the hottest thing around a track since Ben Hur, and thanks to him I'll be able to buy the stuffed reindeer which caught my fancy the first day I went window shopping in Copenhagen. (For years I have had to go along being embarrassed when guests in our home would ask to see our stuffed reindeer and I've have to admit that we didn't have one.)

Yesterday good ol' B. T., whoever he is, picked seven winners out of seven at the track a few miles outside of town and, glory be, I went down the line with him. Actually, I shouldn't take too much credit for following B. T. because I found a Danish newspaper with his selections in it in a taxi riding out to the course, and it was the only information I had all day.

In fact, I have never been to a race track where I was as completely ignorant of what was going on as I was yesterday. I talked to no one, bought no tip sheets, couldn't read any of the signs around the track—in fact, B. T. and I were in a little world of our own, thank goodness.

I never knew the odds of any horse I bet on. I just waited until twenty minutes after each race and then presented my ticket at a window marked "UDBETALING" and gathered in my kroner. About all I could make out was the names of some of the jockeys—Knut Hansen, Eli Jensen, H. Olsen, and Ejv Petersen.

B. T. furnished reasons for his selections, but see if they would help you any more than they did me. He had this to say about the first race, or lob, as the Danes foolishly pronounce race:

"Bois-Mill Lob for Treaarige, der ikke har vundet, 1600 meter. 7 Startende, Ingen i dette Felt har nogen Form vaerd at regne med, hvillket fremgaar allerede deraf med, hvillket fremgar allerede deraf, at samtlige 7 endui i deres fjerde Aar er udn Sejr. Crown 11 har den tilsyneladende bedste Chance foran Cutty Sark og Ma Petite."

I did get a bit out of that. Crown 11 sounded like a race horse's name, Cutty Sark rang a familiar note, and my mastery of French gave me a hint as to what Ma Petite meant.

I can't get over the way the Danes behave during the running of a race. Exuberant, fun-loving people most of the time, they don't so much as make a chirp when a race is on. Nor do they utter a single yell, even when three or four horses pass the finish all in a bunch.

Naturally, all this peace and quiet made me as conspicuous as a bass drummer at a chamber music festival. Toward the end of the day, when I had some fairly serious kroner riding, I acted like a Comanche. I was up on benches giving war whoops of encouragement to B. T.'s and my horses, and generally acting as if I had left my senses back at the hotel with my passport.

The Copenhagen track comes as a surprise to one accustomed to the artificial beauty of American tracks. It is situated in the heart of a forest and its beauty is supplied by the giant trees which encircle it, and the unbelievably lush turf of the racing strips. The track provides a punishing test for the horses. Instead of being flat it dips and rises, and often only the heads of the hoses and the caps of the jockeys are visible. A furlong from the finish the horses have to come up a pretty good rise.

Another attractive feature of the Copenhagen track is the dispatch with which the races are run. They go off on schedule, with none of that stalling while the last dollar is being given time to get in the pari-mutual machines that we have at home. The horses break from a webbing and they don't average more than 30 seconds at the post.

Of course, the fact that I had seven winners may have caused me to see the Copenhagen track through exceptionally rose-colored glasses. Given seven winners, and I suppose a track in a railroad yard would seem perfect.

This is the kind of day when the postal cards that vacationers send home come in right handy . . . sort of blue today . . . heavy, heavy what hangs over head type of day . . . and all that's heavy is the air which holds up the clouds and the clouds are all one and filled with rain. . . . We realize that the teachers and students of atmosphere will disagree with that explanation of conditions but that's the way it is . . . it's just a real blue day.

But as we started to say . . . this is the kind of day when those postal cards from summer resorts come in right handy. . . . In our collection we have some with views of far away places. . . . Washington Calling

(By Marquis Childs)

The Forrestal Diary

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Although expressed with great caution, the view of responsible officials in the Pentagon is that the race against time and space has been won. Reserves of men and arms have reached South Korea to prevent American troops fighting under the United Nations flag from being pushed off the peninsula.

The reason for the caution is plain enough. Too-often-repeated reverses have made the communiques out of the war sound like soothing syrup, intended to lull the American public.

The long chain of reverses has produced an explosive reaction in this country. Not all the consequences of that reaction are now evident. The belief is growing that one consequence will be the repudiation of the party now in power at the polls this coming November.

Acheson And Johnson

Korea has touched off the ever louder cries, "Acheson must go" and "Johnson must go," with particular emphasis on the secretary of defense. If there is now to be a breathing spell while forces are built up for the drive to push the Communist invaders northward, this clamor is likely to grow louder.

It would be out of character with everything in President Truman's make-up if he were to drop the two principal members of his cabinet while they were under fire. It would also be bad politics. It would be taken as a confession of failure. And not even Truman's bitterest enemies have accused him of being a poor politician.

But quite apart from any political gain or loss resulting from the Korean crisis, the average citizen wants to know why the sudden discovery that the western world is virtually defenseless. He had been told by Secretary Johnson that this country was ready for any eventuality and by President Truman that peace was nearer than at any time in the past five years.

Vainglorious Talk

Because of his vainglorious talk Johnson is an easy scapegoat. Johnson is held up as the political opportunist, boasting about economies that would merely cut off the fat and leave the muscle. He is accused of deliberately undercutting the defense planning of his predecessory, James V. Forrestal. Forrestal appears as the noble patriot struggling against hopeless political odds to prepare his country for Communist aggression.

Fortunately for the citizen groping for knowledge, a document is in existence that bears directly on the whole question. It is the diary that Forrestal left behind when he took his own life in May, 1949.

Shortly before the nervous collapse that preceded his death, Forrestal took this diary to the White House and left it there for safekeeping. The document was put in the safe of Rear Admiral Robert L. Dennison, naval aide to the President. At the White House it is said that the diary was kept under seal unopened until it was turned over to Eugene S. Duffield, one of Forrestal's wartime associates, acting for the executor of his estate.

Clarence Dillon, of Dillon, Read & Co., the executor, has now returned to this country from Europe. It is reported that he with the members of the Forrestal family will shortly decide how and when the diary should be published.

Should Be Published

In my opinion there is a strong public obligation to make it available, with proper editing, at the earliest possible date. We should learn more from it than from any other conceivable source.

Those who have read the diary say that it does throw extraordinary light on how we got where we are today. It is also the deeply moving record of a highly intelligent and sensitive individual who sees the pit of destruction prepared for his country; and yet, as though moving in a terrible and timeless nightmare, he can do nothing to avert disaster. This, too, we should face up to—the kind of ordeal to which a responsible public servant can be subjected.

In point of fact the diary is not a connected day-to-day diary. Because it is more or less disjointed and lacking in chronology, it will take a great deal of editing. This editing should be done by someone like Southall Freeman, an historian of the highest stature and responsibiliy. There should be complete confidence that no interest nor any individual has been considered in the editing process.

For here is a voice that can speak above and beyond partisanship. In the broadest sense this is not alone a bequest to family and heirs. It is a bequest—a bequest of truth—to the American people. The things that Forrestal did not say during the last tragic year or two of his life, for what he believed to be good and sufficient reasons, he put down in his last despairing warning of the shape of things to come.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

"How much do you figure it costs to live decently in New York City nowadays?"

That is the question I asked a young fellow who had just complained about the impossibility of getting along in the Big City on the average young man's salary.

His answer to me was "What do you mean by 'DECENTLY'?"

At this very moment many thousands of young people in cities all over the country are confronted with the same problem.

How much DOES it cost to get along "decently" in any big city?

New York is the biggest—but the kids who are trying to climb that steep ladder to success in Chicago, Boston, Los Angeles, Detroit, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, are up against the same difficulty.

And, always the same question arises — what is meant by DECENTLY?

We were visiting at the home of a friend when this matter came up. The fellow who complained about today's economic difficulties was there with his mother. Also present was the host's daughter, approximately the same age as the boy.

Both are college graduates. Both have good jobs with bright futures. Both were well dressed—much better than I could afford to dress at their age.

But both agreed that life nowadays is extremely difficult, and that it is impossible to make ends meet.

I used these youngsters as my guinea pigs to find out what is considered a "decent living" in this modern age of ours.

I was appalled to find out how much the standards had changed.

What kids call "decent" today—and I don't mean morally, but economically — would have been the height of luxury in my days when my age was considered the "modern age."

Too many modern youngsters expect to ride in expensive automobiles. They talk about night clubs and orchestra seats in theatres as if those things were a necessity for decent living. They think of speed boats and trips to Europe, and feel mistreated when they have to eat their lunches in a dinner or "one-arm" restaurant.

I don't blame the kids. I blame us adults who teach our children everything but the old virtues of frugality, simplicity, hard work, patience.

EXTRAVAGANCE has become the watchword. SUCCESS must be attained tomorrow.

There is no doubt that today's Youth has a much tougher road ahead than when I was young.

But then there was still a degree of balance in this world. People still believed in doing a day's work for a day's pay. They still owned their own money and the

'G.I.'s Against Communism' Declared Legal Politics

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—(INS)—Dauphin county court Wednesday decided the initials "G. I." means one word and not two.

The court was asked for the decision in a suit brought by a new political party, "G. I.'s Against Communism," against the secretary of the commonwealth to have its name placed on the November general election ballot.

The party was turned down by the State Elections Bureau which stated the group's name was composed of four words, one over the limit allowed by an election law of 1937. The bureau construed G. I. as two words.

Judge Karl E. Richards in his opinion said that "The initials G. I. in common usage has come to mean a soldier and as used in this case is a noun and therefore one word."

"Originally the initials meant Government Issue and in that sense meant two words," the judge said. "But that is not so in this case."

Richards directed Commonwealth Secretary Gene Smith to receive and file the nominating papers of the new party and to certify the candidates to the several county boards of election for inclusion on the election ballot.

Secretary Smith was unavailable for comment. The state can appeal the decision to a higher court.

This is the second court decision in favor of the group which claims 15,000 members, mostly in western Pennsylvania.

Earlier Dauphin county court ordered the organization's statewide petitions accepted by the bureau which failed to sustain its claim that party representatives arrived two minutes after the 5 p. m. deadline April 26.

Candidates for the party are G. J. Still, Bradford businessman, for governor; Gregory Curry, of Sharon, for U. S. senator, and Philip Angelo, of Pittsburgh, for lieutenant governor.

Supreme Court Hears Pittsburgh Battle

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10—(INS)—The next round in the battle over who will conduct the investigation of the so-called free work scandal in Pittsburgh will be fought next Wednesday before the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

Chief Justice James B. Drew yesterday ordered Allegheny County District Attorney William S. Rahauser to halt the Grand Jury Probe he was sponsoring.

The decision came as a result of the persistence of State Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, who is grappling with Rahauser for the right to investigate charges of fraud by members of Pittsburgh's Democratic Administration.

The Supreme Court will convene in the Steel City next Wednesday in a special session to hear both sides of the case.

I think the whole trouble is that we have gone too far too fast. We have gotten too big for our britches.

The latest census figures show nineteen million more people in the United States than in 1940. But the country's area remains the same.

And, unless my watch is wrong, there are still 60 minutes to every hour.

Eleanor To Narrate 'Peter And The Wolf'

LENOX, Mass., Aug. 10.—(INS)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, mother, writer, world-traveler, diplomat and former first lady, tonight will invade a new field at the Tanglewood music festival.

Mrs. Roosevelt will serve as narrator for the difficult orchestral piece "Peter and the Wolf," or "Symphonic Tale for Children," by Serge Prokifieff, the Russian composer. The pieces requires 25 minutes to play.

Musical experts at Tanglewood today could remember only one other attempt by a woman to perform the narration but could not remember her name.

The piece first was presented in America by the Boston Symphony Orchestra, led by Prokofieff, 12 years ago. At that time the narrator was Richard Hale.

Tricky Piece

Musicians said the cueing for the piece "is tricky." They explained that at times the narrator will relate story without music and at other times the narrator must speak against the music of the entire orchestra.

The story deals with the escape of a boy, "Peter," from a wolf and each character and scene in the story has its own identifying music.

"Peter and the Wolf" is one of the most popular pieces by Prokofieff one of the most important Russian composers of modern times. Prokofieff now is in disfavor with the Soviet government for "not writing real Soviet music." He was charged by the government with writing over the heads of the people.

Formerly, however, he headed a government department which supervised the work of all Russian composers.

DANIEL H. TRELOAR, JR.

Daniel H. Treloar, Jr., has been appointed division head of the Community Chest commercial division for the 1950 fund campaign.

Homer D. Choate, general campaign chairman, made the announcement today and stated that the district agent of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. was a veteran of several Chest drives. He said, "Treloar.s appointment will assure the Chest campaign of excellent coverage in the important commercial division."

The commercial division embraces the larger business establishments in the community, other than industrial, and has always been an important source of revenue for the Chest.

Mr. Treloar is already at work lining up a capable corps of solicitors. In pre-campaign meetings, he plans to outline the scope and nature of the duties which each member of his team is to undertake.

100 Local Grads Off To College In September

Out of 506 graduates from New Castle high school, at least will soon be back again to dull pencils and tattered books. Only this time it will be on a much wider scale.

Scarcely 40 days are left before college sessions will resume all over the nation. New Castle can be justly proud of this fact since these hundred boys and girls will represent us from Maine to Florida and west to California.

Not only does their choice constitute quantity and distance but also quality. Many accredited institutions are represented such as: Haverford college, Western Reserve University, Penn State, University of San Jose. Penn State however, leads the list as far as the number of local graduates enrolled.

From all indications, the retarded summer weather may hang over into the fall months putting an added demand on the electric fan but in the long run presenting a better opportunity to get adjusted to the "new life."

Railroad Trainsmen Hold Large Picnic

Brotherhood of Railroad Trainsmen, 955, and the Ladies' Auxiliary, 565, of New Castle staged one of the most successful picnics that the two groups have ever had at Cascade Park on Tuesday. Two hundred and twenty-five were on hand for the all-day program.

Mrs. Larock was chairlady and W. E. Ert was chairman. Mr. Ert dressed in a complete conductor's uniform for the occasion, took charge of introducing the speakers chief of whom was state senator S. G. Neff of Beaver.

Oldtimers Present

Several oldtimers attended the picnic including: Henry Fault, E. O. Tarver, William Sapper, and William Dunley of Erie, who is 84 years old.

Mrs. W. H. Evans, who celebrated her 84th birthday, was presented with a birthday cake and presents.

Sincere thanks are expressed both to the local merchants who donated over 200 prizes and to Haney Furniture Co. for donating the public address system.

ADDRESSING WOMAN DOCTOR

Question: How should a social invitation be addressed to a doctor and his wife who are both practicing physicians, she retaining her maiden name "Dr. Mary Smith." He is "Dr. Henry Jones?"

Answer: Socially, she is "Mrs." and not "Dr." so address your invitation to "Dr. and Mrs. Henry Jones."

Question: Should small letters or capitals be used for R.s.v.p.

Answer: A capital "R" and small s.v.p. are correct and the most widely used form. But all capitals R.S.V.P. are also permissable.

Question: I have some small forks which are supposed to be used for salad. Have they any other use?

Answer: They are also used for dessert—pie and cake.

Question: Is "how do you do" always the correct acknowledgment of an introduction?

Answer: "How do you do" is the generally accepted and preferred form.

Question: We have had a discussion as to how the engagement and the wedding rings should be worn . . . which should come first on the finger?

Answer: The wedding ring should be put on first. The engagement ring should act as a guard over it.

Question: What is the correct way to address an envelope to a grown brother and sister: Mr. and Miss Smith — George and Mary Smith or Miss Mary and Mr. George Smith?

Answer: There is no such combination. Each should receive an individual invitation, letter, etc.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly mail personal replies to questions from readers enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

Ill War Veteran Dies In Prison Leap

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 10.—(INS)—A 28-year-old World War II veteran, committed temporarily to the Lancaster county prison before removal to a mental hospital, committed suicide Wednesday by leaping head first from the second-floor cellblock to the main floor, 15 feet below.

He died instantly of a fractured skull, according to Dr. Charles P. Stahr, deputy coroner.

He was identified as Dale W. Barto of nearby Manheim.

Prison officials said Barto was being led to the prison physician's office from his second tier cell when he broke away from his guards and dived over a railing.

Barto was committed to the prison Monday to await transfer to a state or federal mental hospital, according to authorities.

LORAIN, O., Aug. 10.—(INS)—Some 2,000 workers struck Wednesday at the Freuhauf Trailer Co. of nearby Avon Lake, largest truck-trailer plant in the world.

Picket lines were set up around the plant by the striking CIO-United Anto Workers Union, but office personnel and supervisory employes were permitted to enter the plant.

Company and union officials, meanwhile, are meeting in Lorain to discuss a company proposal made Wednesday.

R. G. Scheid, union financial secretary, said the workers are not seeking a general wage increase, but are asking for an adjustment of pay rates.

40 And 8 Parade Planned Tonight

Not Much Whoopee For Convention

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—(INS)—There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight for the State American Legion when its fun-making body—the 40 and 8—stages its annual convention parade.

Although an "austerity" edict has been handed down by the Legion's high brass due to the Korean war, the boxcar devotees indicated their throttles on the locomotive replicas will be wide-open for tonight's big fry.

They're going to paint the town . . . but not red.

The convention, in its second day, will receive nearly 100 resolutions from its various committees, with chief interest centered on those seeking to strengthen the nation's might in face of the Korean situation and threatening international developments.

One of the main resolutions to be pushed by the convention will be one calling for universal military training.

The convention may go down as one of the most "non-political" in years. Joseph McCracken, of Kingston, a World War I veteran, is unopposed to succeed Walter E. Alessandroni as commander. Another candidate, Michael Onze, of Olyphant, withdrew yesterday.

One contest for vice commander is shaping up. Edward G. Petrillo of Erie, and George C. Dietrich of Castle Shannon, are seeking the post for the western section. Edward Strickler, of Lansford, and Paul Ord, of Scranton, are unopposed for the eastern and central areas respectively.

Politics will be in the air at today's session, however, with both candidates for the U. S. Senate slated to address the group. Sen. Francis J. Myers, was listed for the morning meeting, while his opponent, Gov. James H. Duff, will speak in the afternoon.

The feminine counterpart of the Legion's 40 and 8, already has elected new officers. They are Mrs. Emily Ferguson, Upper Darby, La Chapeau de Partmental; Miss Vada Reese, of Smethsport and Mrs. Ivah Houseknecht, Hughesville, first and second assistant "Chapeaux;" Mrs. Edna White of Altoona, historian; Mrs. Etta Feldman, Philadelphia, Paumonier; and Mrs. Alice Frazier, of Erie, La Concierge.

There is no housing problem for the Legionnaires this year. Many were reported to have set their vacations for this time, and have taken their families to South Jersey Shore resorts where they plan to join them Saturday after the convention.

Three hotels have been taken over by the Legionnaires as well as convention hall, where the 7,000 delegates and alternates are meeting.

The auxiliary, and the 40 and 8 and its feminine counterpart are holding separate conventions at the three hostelries.

No OPA To Darken Govt. Doors Again

By SAM FOGG
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS)—President Truman declared today there will be no OPA's or other super-government agencies in his administration in peace or war. He said existing departments can handle any situation.

Mr. Truman made the assertion as the House prepared to approve a bill giving the President immediate homefront economic controls and sweeping standby powers to freeze prices and wages and impose rationing.

The measure then will go to the Senate, which is beginning floor debate on the legislation aimed at channeling the nation's defense efforts and curbing inflation during the Korean war.

The President told his news conference that he has been working for five years to improve the government's administrative efficiency and that he believes existing agencies and departments are prepared to cope with anything that develops, under any conditions.

Mr. Truman referred to the numerous governmental reorganization measures he has recommended to Congress, a number of which have been approved.

He said with great emphasis that neither the Korean war nor any foreseeable ramification of that conflict will necessitate creation of an office of price administration or such other super-agencies as were set up in World War II.

Surgeons Develop Artificial Heart

COLUMBUS, O.—(INS) — Surgeons are developing an artificial heart.

If their experiments prove successful, the new mechanical heart may revolutionize present heart surgery methods by pumping blood through the body while delicate heart operations are performed.

With the usual caution of medical men, a spokesman said that "we have a great deal more work yet before we can say that the mechanical heart is foolproof or before it can be used on heart patients."

But he didn't conceal his hope that, if the apparatus is successful, it may mean new hope to desparate heart cases, especially those where the patient suffers from rheumatic fever.

At present, the surgeon explained, most heart surgery must be performed blindly, with the surgeon probing inside a heart chamber filled with blood. He can't see what he is doing.

With the mechanical heart, they hope to bypass blood from the heart chamber and pump it mechanically through the body while surgeons work on the inactive heart compartment.

Snuff For Butts Is Fair Exchange

LONDON—(INS)—Spending too much money on smokes? Suffering from smoker's cough?

The current issue of the British Medical Journal claims to have a sure-fire way of saving plenty for cigarette smokers—and it doesn't mean giving up cigarettes the hard way, with the consequent irritability, sleeplessness, and shaky nerves.

The Journal pointed out that snuff, taken at a rate of one ounce a month—quite a liberal dose, snuff-takers think—will satisfy a person used to smoking 20 cigarettes daily.

Monthly consumption of 20 cigarettes a day comes to roughly $14.70—or 49 cents a pack. An ounce of snuff costs 70 cents. The monthly saving thus is $14.

The Journal says an ounce of snuff a month brings the same psychological satisfaction as 20 cigarettes daily.

Doctors believe also that snuff-taking would completely banish the smoker's cough, be a useful precaution against the common cold, and reduce poison nicotine cases.

They claim that the normal daily dose of snuff has little more nicotine in it than a single cigarette.

The doctors do not mention the extra laundry expenses of washing snuff-stained handkerchiefs, however.

State Wheat Allotment Up

Increase Of 1.2 Per Cent Over '49

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's 1951 wheat allotment of 907,803 acres represents an increase of 1.2 per cent over 1950, according to state production and marketing administration committee chairman Clyde A. Zehner.

The figure reflects the results of trends in production history, Zehner said. Actual wheat acreage planted in Pennsylvania this year amounted to 872,000 acres.

"Some county allotments will be larger for 1951 and some smaller," he pointed out. "Wheat growers are being asked again this year to produce their crops in accordance with the allotments."

"Farmers should remember that they will be eligible for government price-support protection of their wheat crop only if they comply," he explained.

Five central artificial breeding cooperatives have extended grants totaling $37,000 for expansion of the dairy cattle breeding research center at Pennsylvania State college.

Study of female sterility and delayed breeding, top problems of Pennsylvania dairy farmers will be taken up with the increased facilities, reported Dr. John O. Almquist, associate professor of dairy husbandry.

"This one problem is costing Pennsylvania dairymen $15,000,000 annually and the losses appear to be increasing from year to year," he said.

Central cooperatives financing improvements are located at Lewisburg, Allentown, Landisville, Clarion and Tunkhannock.

New facilities will include a cow barn with stanchions for 40 cows, a storage feed room, a milk house and laboratory facilities.

Promotion, emphasizing food value and improved mechandising techniques, have been advanced in marketing of honey.

Penn State research apiarist E. J. Anderson said that in a recent study, sales jumped 800 to 1,000 per cent when consumers were provided facts about honey and the product was sold in efficient packages.

Emphasized during the survey, Anderson said, were the facts that honey provides quick energy and contains vitamin C and seven kinds of vitamin B as well as most of the minerals human diets need.

County agricultural agents are offering full information to aid in fumigating grain bins and granaries to prevent heavy losses to stored grains because of insects. Chances of infestation are reduced, agents say, if bins are cleaned before they are filled.

EZRA INTERPRETED GOD'S WORD

HE READ AND EXPLAINED THE LAW TO ISRAELITES

Ezra reading the law in the hearing of the people.

"I will not forget Thy word."—Psalm 119:16.

Scripture—Ezra 7; 8: 15-36; Nehemiah 8-9.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

In the reigns of King Cyrus and, later, Darius, some of the Israelites in exile were allowed to go home, on condition that they would rebuild the temple. They had done so, the first temple being built in the reign of Cyrus, the second when Darius was on the throne.

At the time our story opens, Artaxerxes I was the Persian ruler. He too was sympathetic to his Jewish subjects. After more than 60 years in exile they had strayed from their home laws. The priests as well as the people were intermarrying with the heathen; the upper classes oppressing the poor, and the people generally were not paying their tithes.

Then came Ezra, "a ready scribe in the law of Moses". King Artaxerxes readily granted his request that he go to Jerusalem, because Ezra "had prepared his heart to seek the law of the Lord, and to do it, and to teach in Israel statutes and judgments."

Indeed, the king gave Ezra a letter in which he decreed that "all they of the people of Israel, and of his priests and Levites, in my realm, which are minded of their own free will to go up to Jerusalem, go with thee."

Not only did the king decree that they might go freely, but to take with them the gold and silver vessels belonging to the temple, and money from free-will offerings that they might buy livestock for sacrifice.

There surely was danger that they might be robbed of their rich burdens on the way to Jerusalem, and they felt some misgivings at first, but a fast was ordered and they prayed for God's protection, for, said Ezra, "I was ashamed to require of the king a band of soldiers and horsemen to help us against the enemy in the way: because we had spoken unto the king, saying, The hand of our God is upon all them for good that seek Him."

They came safely to Jerusalem, where Ezra applied himself to the study of the laws given Moses by God. When he was ready, the books arranged, "all the people gathered themselves together as one man in the street that was before the water gate; and they spake unto Ezra the scribe to bring the book of the law of Moses, which the Lord had commanded to Israel."

So Ezra the scribe "stood upon a pulpit of wood, which they had made for the purpose," and beside him stood his assistants, some on his right hand and some on his left.

And Ezra opened the book in the sight of all the people; (for he was above all the people:) and when he opened it, all the people stood up.

"And Ezra blessed the Lord, the great God. And all the people answered, Amen, Amen, with lifting up their hands: and they bowed their heads, and worshiped the Lord with their faces to the ground."

They read the law of God distinctly, and caused the people to understand the reading.

"And Nehemiah, which is the Tirshatha, and Ezra the priest and scribe, and the Levites, that taught the people, said unto all the people, This day is holy unto the Lord, your God; mourn not, nor weep. For all the people wept, when they heard the words of the law.

"Then he said unto them, Go your way, eat the fat, and drink the sweet, and send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared: for this day is holy unto our Lord: neither be ye sorry; for the joy of the Lord is your strength."

Then they read in the law that the people should dwell in booths so the people made booths and sat in them, "And there was very great gladness."

The ninth chapter of Nehemiah tells of the people sitting in sackcloth with earth upon them, repenting their sins. "And they stood up in their place, and read in the book of the Lord their God one-fourth part of the day; and another fourth part they confessed, and worshipped their God.

The rest of this chapter is taken up by Ezra's prayer—a beautiful petition, reviewing all the blessings of God to His people; confessing that they had failed to obey Him time and again, but always the Lord had forgiven them.

Korean Arsenal Scratched From U.S. Bomb List

TOKYO, Aug 10—(INS)—North Korea's devastated arsenal and freight yards at the communist capital of Pyongyang were scratched from the far east air forces bomb list in the wake of another huge B-29 Superfortress raid.

The B-29's rocked the enemy installations with showers of explosives Tuesday following up destruction on Monday.

FEAF commander Lieut. Gen George E. Stratemeyer said the raids were so devastating that "this is the second military target that we can scratch from our current list.'"

The first, he said, was the big "industrial complex" at Konan, struck thrice by B-29s

Maj. Gen. Emmett (Rosey) O'Donnell, chief of the FEAF (provisional) bomber command, also said after studying reconnaissance photos that "it will not be necessary to go back to the Pyongyang marshalling yard or arsenal for some time to come."

U. S. fifth air force B-26 light bombers hurled 32 thousand-ton bombs on Inchon's industrial and dock installations. Large fires and extensive damage were noted after the attack on the key Yellow sea port west of Seoul, South Korea's fallen capital.

American bombers attacked railroad bridges in North Korea along key communication points while jet and Mustang fighters, including Australian planes, raked various troop concentrations and installations behind the battle lines. They acted in close support of attacking ground troops.

Pennsylvania Ideal Site For Vacations

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10—The State Planning Board, Department of Commerce, says Pennsylvania's landscapes with its pleasing variety of hills and valleys, pastures and woodlands, slowly winding creeks and dashing mountain streams is better suited to most vacation uses than the great mountain areas or the picturesque buttes and desesrt lands of some of the western states.

Will Control Reds With Stronger Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS)—The House un-American Activities committee agreed Wednesday to produce a stronger communist control bill than President Truman asked in his message to congress.

Committee members reported that they are unanimously ready to model their legislation along the lines of the Mundt-Ferguson-Nixon bill and to include curbs on communist-front organizations which the president did not request.

Republican members said the committee is ready to risk a presidential veto on grounds that it can be overridden.

The committee, according to the members, is also ready to incorporate into the measure a proposal by Chairman Wood (D) Ga., which would make it a crime for a communist to work for the government or in an industrial plant which has defense contracts.

Rep. Walter (D) Pa., said the legislation will probably be given committee approval either today or early next week.

Tydings Calls Korean Defense 'A Miracle'

By ROSE McKEE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The administration's top military spokesman in Congress declared Wednesday that U. S. forces have achieved a "miracle" in Korea that merits the praise of the free world.

Senate Armed Services Chairman Tydings (D) Md., disclosed at the same time that strategy for the defense of North America and western Europe is currently under re-examination. He called on military leaders to rush new plans to Congress so lawmakers can act upon them.

Tydings, in an interview with international News Service, said it is too early to tell whether the new plans will mean a request for money over and above the five and one-quarter billion defense dollars the president already has asked this year for Atlantic Pact countries.

Of specific proposals, Tydings said they should all be considered in light of overall security. He declared, "I do not want to buy a pig in the poke—we need all the plans soon so we can act."

In discussing the war in Korea, the congressional military leader said:

Six Weeks Change

"The fact that not one American soldier was in Korea when the North Koreans attacked six weeks ago and we have been able in that short space of time to transport forces from the United States across the Pacific with accompanying heavy weapons in sufficient strength to halt the advance of the Reds and recently to counter-attack is a military achievement deserving the commendation of our people, the United Nations and the democracies associated with us.

"In six short weeks a miracle has been accomplished even though some of the strength has to come 7,000 miles from the scene of the fighting.

Reserve Troops

"We now have enough men to afford the luxury of support and reserve troops whereas before we needed every man on the front lines.

That was a serious condition. Its correction should give us all new heart."

Of the Communist threat on a global scale, Tydings declared:

"I have been reliably informed that the defense plans, armaments and strength of the North Atlantic Pact countries is being currently re-examined with a view to making them and ourselves mutually more secure.

"This much we all know now—the process of strengthening the defense of western Europe and the western hemisphere must be increased and pushed with all reasonable speed."

MacArthur Revises Red Army Estimates

TOKYO, Aug. 10—(INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's intelligence officers revised upwards today their estimates of the Communist army's strength on the Korean front to indicate the Reds may have as many as 142,610 troops in action.

The new estimates placed the numerical strength of the average North Korean division at 10,970 men, as compared with previous estimates of 6,000 to 7,500. Information available to MacArthur's intelligence service indicates the invaders have a maximum of 13 divisions—aggregating up to 142,610 troops—in South Korea.

Here are the new American estimates of the strength of the North Korean Army units:

Division—10,970 troops.
Infantry Regiment—2,815.
Artillery Regiment—1,330.
Infantry Battalion—720.
Artillery Battalion—395.
Infantry Company—125.

HUNT FOR THIEF

LONDON, Aug. 10.—(INS)—Scotland Yard stepped up its search today for secret atomic research papers stolen from a British scientist.

U. S. Air Force security officers also were participating in the efforts to track down the documents taken from Frank W. Greenlees, a member of the ministry of supply's atomic research center at Risley.

Greenlees said the papers were in a brief case which disappeared from a train in a London station. He had been in the capital to attend a conference and was returning to Risley.

The Isle of Man, we read, was at war with Germany from 1914 to 1945. The Manxmen must have figured that the rest of the world, from 1919 to 1939, was just taking time out between halves.

Formosa Trip Purely Military—MacArthur

TOKYO, Aug. 10—(INS)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur blasted today what he termed "many misstatements" concerning his recent visit to Formosa which he said "has been maliciously misrepresented to the public."

In an unusual special statement, MacArthur declared his discussions with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek were 'limited entirely to military matters" dealing with "the problem of preventing military violence to Formosa as directed by the President."

He emphatically declared that the trip had "no connection with political affairs . . . or anything else outside the scope of my own military responsibility."

MacArthur charged that "those who invariably in the past have propagandized a policy of defeatism and appeasement in the Pacific" had "maliciously misrepresented" the purpose of his visit to the public.

He expressed his fervent hope that "the American people will not be misled by sly insinuations . . . which tend, if they are not indeed designed, to promote friction and disunity."

Steelers Prepare To Meet Baltimore

CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS, Pa., Aug.) 10.—(INS)—The Pittsburgh Steelers added finishing touches today for their 1950 debut—against the Baltimore Colts Sunday in an exhibition at Baltimore.

Frank Wydo, 215-pound tackle, joined the squad. His appearance more-or-less offset the "resignations" of tackle Bill Butler of Houston university and halfback Ben McNeil of North Texas State, who left camp after yesterday's practices by their own choice.

In the last decade, not a single blonde has been selected as "Miss America."

Soldier Tells Of Treatment Received From Red Troops

FAIRFIELD, Cal., Aug. 10.—(INS)—A young corporal lay in a hospital bed at the Fairfield-Suisun air force base Wednesday and bitterly related how North Korean troops coldly massacred his bound and helpless comrades.

Cpl. William H. Gilhooley, 22-year-old First Cavalryman whose home is in the Bronx, N. Y., also told how he escaped from the North Koreans.

He is the sole survivor of a tank crew surrounded and captured by the Communists near Ochon, between Taejon and Yongdong.

The others were riddled with machine gun fire by the fleeing Reds when American troops attacked the camp in which the captured soldiers were held prisoners.

The North Koreans thought they also had killed Gilhooley and left him for dead.

Gilhooley said the tank and its crew were surrounded by the Reds as they were bivouacked in a river bed en route to support a unit of the 24th Infantry Division.

The North Koreans took the prisoners to where their heavy artillery was located. They allowed the Americans to give morphine to the tank commander who had been hit three times in the leg with machinegun fire. Gilhooley said there were two captured infantrymen at the artillery unit.

"About half an hour later," the corporal said, "they marched us about three miles to a little village. We were there about two hours and they brought in an INS correspondent, Michael Gigantis, who writes under the name of Philip Deane. The correspondent was wounded and had been captured with his driver.

"They questioned us and took our dogtags. I almost got shot then for having a grenade in my pocket.

"By that time it was getting dark and they tied our hands behind us with telephone wire and took the correspondent and his driver somewhere else. I never saw them again.

"About 7:30 a. m. a liaison plane spotted the main body of about 800 enemy troops and about eight o'clock a flight of jets hit us. I never heard such a racket. They really cut them down.

"After the jets let up they took us to another village. The tank commander got hit during the jet attack and they shot him because he couldnt' walk any further.

"They laid us down under a tree and we heard shooting and later learned it was part of the First Cavalry. This attack really broke their back. They began to scatter but before they left they machine-gunned us. I was hit twice in the left shoulder and the other man from my crew was killed, leaving me the only survivor.

"The two infantrymen were both hit in the chest but one of them broke the wire on my wrists with his teeth and then I untied him and went for help."

Stork Promotes Baby Food Boom

NEW YORK—(INS)—Some U. S. business men can truthfully claim that they have been given the bird—but they're not angry about it.

The bird is the stork who visited more U. S homes in 1949 than in any other year in national history, with the sole exception of 1947. The 3,581,000 bundles which he delivered are now causing manufacturers of baby products to hastily revise their production and sales estimates.

The new "bumper crop" of babies means that industries supplying infant dietary needs will have to make some substantial rearrangements, for baby feeding is a big business.

The total number of babies under two years of age—which is what the makers of baby supplies are guided by—was expected to decline by 1950 to around 6,300,000, according to L. W. Graaksamp, vice-president of American Can Company, but instead this key figure now stands at 7,116,000.

This means, he added, a reversal of the indicated downtrend in production of canned baby foods that began last year and saw a four per cent dip from the one and a half billion containers that had been packed the year before.

The Siriono Indians of Bolivia have no domesticated animals, not even dogs, of which they are terrified.

KEEP TRUMAN BRIEFED ON KOREA

THE NATION'S RANKING MILITARY CHIEF, Gen. Omar N. Bradley (left), Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is accompanied by Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations, on arrival at the White House for daily briefing of the President on developments in Korea. EXPERTS WRONG

BEXHILL, Eng. — Orchids will not grow by the sea. That is one subject that British gardening experts, who differ on innumerable other topics, agree upon. But R. D. Tarry, of Gooden, Bexhill, County Sussex, has proved the experts wrong. In his greenhouse overlooking the sea. Tarry has a collection of some 60 to 70 species of orchids.

DOLLS FROM BOTTLES

WHEELING, W. Va.—The baby dolls which Mrs. Hazel Bonar makes are created on bottles. She uses bottles of any kind, ink, vinegar, wine, pop or ketchup, as the base on which to build the cotton-padded bodies. The figures serve as decorative items rather than playthings for baby.

TOO MUCH EXCITEMENT

BELLEVILLE, Ill.—Gene Allen scored the first hole-in-one of the season at St. Clair Country club. Allen's drive dropped into the cup on the 145-yard No. 2 hole. His opponent, Dale Huntley, got so excited he failed to hit his own tee shot.

PILOT ASLEEP

NORTHAMPTON, Mass.—It's an honor to be a "grass cop" at Smith college. Each dormitory elects a "cop", identified by badge and whistle, to enforce traffic rules for bicycles and pedestrians on the campus.

New Translation Of Psalms By Catholic Bible Experts

By JAMES LEE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(INS)—American Catholic Biblical experts today announced publication of a new translation of the Book of Psalms, presenting the Ancient Religious Songs in a 20th century vocabulary without sacrifice of their majestic beauty.

The confraternity of Christian Doctrine pointed out that this is the second major step of a project begun by direction of Pope Pius XII in 1943 to achieve a more readable edition of the Old Testament.

Startling changes in tense and simplicity of style have been brought about by direct translation from original languages of the Psalms rather than from the Latin versions of the original, the method used in past centuries.

The new translation marks the first such change in the poetic form of the Psalms since the 17th Century. The "thee's" and "thou's" are now "you." "Hath" is "has" and "hast" is "have."

Latin headings have been eliminated, and centered titles are used to increase readability.

Drastic Revision

As an example of the drastic revision, the "Good Shepherd Psalms" now appears closer to the Protestant than to the traditional Catholic Douay version. Formerly, the beloved Psalm began:

"The Lord ruleth me:
And I shall want nothing.
He hath set me in a place of pasture.
He hath brought me up,
On the water of refreshment:
He hath converted my soul. . . ."

Now it is rendered:

"The Lord is my shepherd: I shall not want.
In verdant pastures He gives me repose;
Beside restful waters He leads me;
He refreshes my soul. . ."

Thirty translators from the Catholic Biblical Association's roster of 250 priests are engaged in the Old Testament translation project. The new edition of the Book of Genesis was published in 1948, and it is expected that the complete translation of the Old Testament will be accomplished by 1955.

Work of the 301-page book of Psalms was started in 1944, when Father Eberhard Olinger, O.S.B., and other Benedictine monks of St. Meinrad Abbey in Indiana began translations of the 150 Psalms and 17 canticles.

The monks worked from a critical Hebrew text and from other Hebrew readings and sources estimated to date back to 200 B. C.

Completed in three years, the manuscript since has undergone revision under a rigid system of checks and balances assuring accuracy of translation and style and consistency of expression.

The new book, printed by the St. Anthony Guild Press in Paterson, N. J., bears the imprimatur of Bishop Edwin V. O'Hara of Kansas City, chairman of the Episcopal committee of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

Two copies of the new version, bound in white leather and stamped with the papal coat of arms, will be presented to Pope Pius in the name of the Cathloic Biblical Association of America in a special audience next month.

Gov. Duff Warns Against Sabotage

Urges Legionnaires To Fight Communism

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10—(INS)—Gov. James H. Duff warned today that a "tremendous threat of sabotage" endangers Pennsylvania's heavily-industrialized areas as a result of the Korean situation.

The Chief Executive, in a fighting speech before the 32nd annual State Convention of the American Legion, denounced Communists as "serpents in our midst" who should be hanged "like any other treasonable persons."

Duff told the cheering delegates that the commonwealth's rich industrial areas constitute a "prime and vital objective" of Soviet Russia.

Industry Concentrated

"No other community (state) in the United States," he declared, "has the concentration of industry we have in Pennsylvania."

Duff said that Communism should be "punishable by treason" and carry the death penalty.

"Why should such creatures (Communists) be permitted to live while our boys are dying in combat?" the Governor demanded.

Duff told the Legion delegates that steps are being taken in Pennsylvania to wage an "all-out war on Communism" in the state.

"As long as I am governor," he asserted, 'Communists will be treated as they should be treated—as traitors."

He urged the Legion to use its influence in building a "strong home front resistance to Communism."

If the Korean war develops into World War III, Duff warned, defense of the home front will be of vital importance.

Save Home Front

"For unless we make the home front secure," the Governor cautioned, "it will make little difference what happens elsewhere."

Duff called upon all Americans to accept "necessary sacrifices and responsibilities" in the battle against Communism, 'the greatest threat in history" to the nation's way of life.

Do not be soft in dealing with Communism," Duff said.

Earlier, Maj. Gen. Daniel B. Strickler demanded a "house cleaning" of Communists in the federal government as a major step toward national security."

45 Per Cent Tax Gets Committee OK

By FELIX COTTEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS)—The Senate Finance Committee approved unanimously today President Truman's proposal for an increase in the income tax on corporations to a maximum of 45 per cent.

The action came as Mr. Truman said that he is not now asking for a new excess profits levy because the time to talk sensibly about a long-range tax program is after the election jitters are over.

The Senate group is working on the President's request for five billion dollars more in individual and corporation income taxes to help finance the Korean war.

Allegheny County Polio Cases Not Over Average

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10—(10)—The State Health Department today assured residents of Allegheny and Westmoreland counties that they should not be alarmed by the poliomyelitis rate in those areas.

The department reported 30 cases in Allegheny county so far this year and 12 in Westmoreland county, with yesterday's figures included.

A department spokesman said that "contrary to reports" in the two counties, the number of cases is "not above those of an average year to this date."

On a statewide basis, the department announced an increase of 41 cases over the comparable period last year, with 161 cases up to this time compared with 120 at this date last year.

FBI Nabs Leader Of Brother Trio

Suspect Joseph Nolen Of Ohio Bank Robbery

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—(INS)—The FBI in Philadelphia today announced the capture of Joseph Wayne Nolen, 24, as the leader of a brother trio suspected in a $35,000 Ohio bank robbery.

Two other brothers, John, 19, and Ballard, 20, are still being sought for the holdup of the Corryville branch of the Fifth-Third Union Trust Co., in Cincinnati, O., on July 26.

Arthur Cornelius, Jr., special agent in charge of the Philadelphia FBI office, said $5,480 of the reported loot was recovered with Nolen's arrest, including $3,680 found in the bag of a vacuum cleaner in a Philadelphia apartment where Nolen stayed for eight days.

Cornelius said Nolen was arrested Tuesday by Maryland state police for speeding on U. S. route 1 near Fullerton, north of Baltimore.

A check with the FBI indicated he was one of the three brothers sought in the bank holdup, and he was ordered held in $100,000 bail to await removal to Ohio.

Questioning of Nolen brought out that he left Cincinnati after the holdup and forced his family to accompany him to Dayton, O., where the brothers are wanted for a sporting goods store holdup. From Dayton the family drove to Philadelphia.

Agents who went to search the Philadelpiha apartment last night found his wife, Betty Jane, and their two children, aged two and seven months. They were about to give up the search when they noticed a bulge in the vacuum cleaner bag, which brought forth the money.

The FBI said Mrs. Nolen denied knowledge of the cache, and she was not arrested.

Cornelius said that at Baltimore the FBI agents found $1,300 in Nolen's left stocking and $500 in his right.

When apprehended Nolen told police he was on his way to "visit relatives in Indiana". Police said he had two revolvers in the car, and identified one of them as being one of 10 stolen from the Dayton sporting goods store.

CANONSBURG, Pa., Aug. 10.—(INS)—Continental Can Company today granted 200 workers a 2½ cents hourly wage increase retroactive to Feb. 7, 1949, and they called off their three-day strike in Canonsburg.

Production will begin again next week.

The settlement apparently has eliminated an 18-month grievance. Four hundred production workers had walked out. Officials of the CIO-United Steelworkers said union members objected to a speed-up of machine operations.

Universal Training Under Consideration

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS)—The administration is giving "intensive study" today to the possibility of asking Congress to pass a universal military training act.

The disclosure was made as the Senate armed services committee approved a bill suspending one-year enlistments in the armed forces.

Rear Adm. H. S. Houser, director of legislative liaison for the defense department, told the committee that he "would expect something along the line" of a compulsory military training request "in the not too far distant future."

Increased A-Bomb Production Ordered

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS)—An increase in the production of atomic bombs has been ordered today by the joint congressional Atomic Energy Committee as a result of the Korean war.

The committee directed the Atomic Energy Commission to speed up the manufacture of A-bombs and other atomic weapons by expanding existing facilities if necessary.

As a result, the commission agreed to recommend to President Truman that Congress be requested to appropriate an additional 500 million dollars for that purpose.

This was disclosed today by congressional sources, who reported that the nation's atomic program was "in good shape" in comparison to that of the Soviet Union. They anticipated that the request will be approved by the President and submitted to Congress shortly.

Will Prepare Bill Permitting GI Vote

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—(INS)—Legislation is being drafted to allow for absentee voting by Pennsylvania servicemen in the 1951 elections.

However, it's too late to provide soldier vote ballots for this year's November election, Commonwealth Secretary Gene D. Smith reported today.

A special session of the General Assembly would have to be called to shove through a 1950 absentee vote, he said, and even then not enough time remains to prepare the necessary affidavit and ballot forms.

The legislature will be asked in 1951 to approve a bill similar to the 1941 soldier vote law which was repealed by the 1947 legislature, Smith said.

The U. S. Geological Survey says only two states—Massachusetts and Rhode Island—can be considered adequately mapped.

Around Hollywood

By JAMES PADGITT

(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—For years Hollywoodians have let off steam at the evils of type casting, but Glenn Ford thinks that typing is nothing to weep and wail about.

"So much hokum!" pooh-poohs Glenn. "In the first place, type casting can really get a guy started in movies. Secondly, it pays off in good old green folding money. And, thirdly, you can escape if you want to."

Ford is probably the outstanding authority on the mixed blessing.

He just finished a role for Paramount, astride a horse, in the sage epic "Beyond the Sunset". It was his fourth western—and he is one of the ablest riders in the business.

Likeable Lad

But you canont say Ford is a victim of type casting. He was a likeable lad on the meek side in "Mating of Millie", a rugged mountainclimber in "The White Tower", a refugee in "So Ends Our Night", and a sadistic colonel in "The Man from Colorado". In "The Doctor and the Girl" he played an interne, then switched to a jailbird for "Convicted".

His next will find him playing Ben Hogan, the golfer, in "The Ben Hogan Story".

Yet Glen admits being typed has its points:

"It's a good business to be typed. In this line of work a guy has to establish his own identity. You hear people talk on a Marlene Dietrich type, a Clark Gable type. When they start talking of a Glenn Ford type I will know my bread and butter are assured a few years longer."

But Ford also confesses variety is the spice of cimatic existence and it is more fun to win vastly different roles in a succession of films. Each new role seems more zestful than the last. He has been lucky enough to get his share of westerns—which he loves—yet keep things interesting with intermittent roles of a far different hue.

Nice Listening

Opening day on Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Mr. Imperium", co-starring Lana Turner and Ezio Pinza, pulled a switch on the spectators.

Pinza listened and Lana sang!

It is the first meeting in the romance which is being filmed in color. Set in a glamorous night club on the Italian Riviera, Pinza sits among the guests and applauds Miss Turner, who is the girl singer with a California cowboy band.

The actress, dressed in a short blue-and-white checked gingham hilbilly outfit, sings and dances to comedy number, "My Love and My Mule". She captivates her audience and the heart of Mr. Imperium, the name under which Pinza, as heir apparent to a throne, travels. Later in the picture, of course, Pinza sings romantic sweet-nothings into the pink ears of Lana.

Woman Murdered In 'Golden State'

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Aug. 10.—(INS)—An Iowa woman was murdered today aboard the Southern Pacific's Golden State Limited while the streamlined train streaked through Arizona.

The victim was identified as Mrs. A. C. Park of Grinnell.

Douglas Police Chief Percy Bowden said Mrs. Park had been strangled while the train sped between Bisbee and Douglas and that Howard Lantz, 28, of Charleston, W. Va., was taken off the train at Douglas and admitted the crime.

Chief Bowden said Lantz had been drinking and apparently had slain the woman in a "drunken frenzy."

Time of the murder was set at about 6 a. m. EDT.

After Thirty Years John Wilson Shows Up Very Much Alive

"Why man I thought you were dead!" was the greeting that John R. Wilson, 1030 Dewey avenue, received upon finding an old World War I buddy whom he had not seen in 32 years.

The buddy, Howard M. Cummins, 9½ South Ninth street, Richman, Ind., was discovered by Wilson when he was returning home from a meeting in Kansas City and decided to stop. Wilson interviewed more than 75 people in Anderson and Kokomo, where Cummings used to live, before finally finding him in Richman.

Wounded in Battle

Cummins believed that Wilson was dead because the last time that he had seen him was lying in a shellhole near Chatea-Thierry, France, in 1918. Wilson had been struck in the head by shrapnel. Two other men were killed by the same shell, Cummins recalled.

The battle roared on, however, and Mr. Cummings and the surviving members of the unit pushed ahead. Cummings heard no more about his buddy, nor did his teammates, but that wasn't surprising since Yankee casualties were heavy.

Only 105 Live

Of the 2,090 original members of the 12th Field Artillery Regiment of the Second Infantry Division, which went overseas in the war, only 105 returned home with the outfit and only five of the 105 were not wounded. Mr. Cummins was one of the lucky five.

Mr. Wilson told Cummins that he was close to death but was evacuated to England shortly after being wounded and remained in a hospital there for nine months.

Through the intervening years Wilson developed a hobby of trying to locate his former buddies and he eventually was able to contact 10 of them.

BOISE, IDAHO, Aug. 10—(INS)—Idaho is the only state in the union named for a potato: the Idaho Baker, for which good time Charlies pay 50 cents each in such lobster palaces as the Stork Club and the Pump Room.

As a matter of record, the state and its Indian name did come first. Potatoees are a Johnny-comelately in Idaho economics. But a lot of Americans who have only a vague idea where Idaho is and couldn't bound the state with the aid of the National Geographic are on intimate gastronomic terms with Idaho diamonds or spuds.

Vegetable Gold

What corn is to Kansas, citrus fruit to Florida and oil to Oklahoma, potatoes are to Idaho. Not even the Irish have a more touching loyalty to spuds than Idahoans. They are the state's sign, symbol and trade mark and more by accident than design.

Until World War I, mines and timbers, sheep and cattle were Idaho staples. Then some unsung genius discovered that the state's peculiar combination of volcanic ash soil, and hot days and cold nights during the growing season produced a super-duper spud that is to other spuds what the Hope diamond is to rhinestones.

Idaho doesn't grow the most potatoes of any state in the union; she is merely content to grow the best. She only produces about ten per cent of the United States crop. But it invariably sells at a premium. That premium last year averaged two dollars per hundred higher than any other American spuds.

This explains the reason class restaurants can hold the customer up for 50 cents per Idaho Baker and why potato addicts in the east pay ten-to-fifteen cents each at the grocer's for a baking spud to go with the sirloin.

Little Government Money

Idaho is kinda proud, too, that in the 1949-50 potato season, the United States government through its price support program was only able to wrest six per cent of the Idaho spud crop away from commercial buyers. She points with pardonable pride to the fact that the government bought four times as many Maine spuds, or 24 per cent of the crop in that state. And that Uncle Sam was fall guy for 34 per cent of the Connecticut, 32 per cent of the Massachusetts and 30 per cent of the Long Island crops.

There are no spuds kings in this state as around Aroostock, Me. No one has gotten rich from government subsidies or support prices, for the simple reason that there are no large individual potato acreage here. Plot range in general from ten to 140 acres.

Idaho spuds, selling at premium prices ($6 a hundredweight wholesale on the New York market) are a nice cash crop in these parts but maintain few mink coats.

The state produced only five to seven thousand carloads of potatoes in 1920. The 1949-50 crop lined Idaho pockets with $43,200,000 compared with $7,312,000 in 1937-38, or what hath inflation wrought!

The local Chamber of Commerce is now accustomed to requests for seed potatoes and inquiries on how to grow Idaho spuds from far off places such as the Dutch East Indies, New Zealand, Hawaii and the British Isles.

In sections

Local growers have largely overcome the old tendency of Idaho potatoes to grow too big for home use. A ten or twelve foot potato was too large for most home kitchens. However, through new agricultural practices, such big potatoes are now grown in 12-inch sections and will fit into most ovens.

Idaho is proud of her spuds and a mite annoyed that they are not used for other purposes than baking. An Idaho potato is as good boiled or French fried as baked, the experts contend. Home economic experts have determined that the best temperature at which to bake an Idaho diamond is from 400 to 450 degrees.

For a one pound Idaho baked potato, one should also have one pound of Idaho butter. By the way, Idaho experts insist that Idaho potatoes are not fattening: just what goes with'em, like butter and gravy.

Such spuds are just as good boiled, the experts say. Put the potato in a small amount of cold water, bring it to a boil and simmer until done. They will have the same texture then as if baked. They will be even better if steamed instead of boiled.

Idaho has even gone so far as to invent a chocolate potato cake. This title somehow gives the impression that the potatoes themselves are chocolate. Idaho spuds are remarkable but not that remarkable. The chocolate is added.

However, loyal as I am to my home state and her spuds, I think this is carrying loyalty too far. I will eat potatoes anyway, but I'll be darned if I'll eat'em in a chocolate cake.

Civilian Defense Nears Wartime Shape In State

By ED HAUCK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 10.—Civilian defense in Pennsylvania today is rapidly approaching wartime conditions.

Late in September Pennsylvania's civilian air raid warning system will be tested when the state will undergo a mock air raid, Col. Lewis F. Acker, director of the program, announced yesterday.

Colonel Acker made the announcement after he disclosed that the air force directed Pennsylvania to establish air raid filter stations at Harrisburg and Pittsburgh.

In adition, Acker announced that details will be released shortly for an intensive program to blood type every individual of the state—men, women and children.

If the program is not successful on a voluntary basis, Acker said, a bill will be introduced in the next session of the legislature making blood typing compulsory for drivers licenses.

Acker said there will be a clause in the bill to cover blood testing of non-drivers. He said the details will be worked out later.

8,000 Participate

More than 8,000 volunteers will take part in the trial air raid in which "enemy" aircraft will sweep over the state's borders from an unknown direction.

Aircraft spotters stationed at 660 scattered observation posts throughout the state will message location and approximate air speed of unidentified aircraft to the nearest filter station.

Personnel at the filter station will chart the course of the planes, meanwhile checking the eastern air command. If the plane is not identified, the alert will be shot to 15 air warning stations. Fourteen are located at state police barraks and the other in the city-county building at Pittsburgh.

From here, the alert is passed to to county air raid warning centers. In turn, the county's sub-divisions are notified.

Colonel Acker said warnings in the mock air raid will reach down only to the county level.

Air Force Direction

The civil defense director said the filter station at Harrisburg will be on the state capitol grounds and the one at Pittsburgh will be in the Baum building. Air force personnel will direct operation of the stations.

Capt. Edward F. Lennon, of Albany, N. Y., reported yesterday to set up the Harrisburg station. Capt. Lennon will conduct a training course starting August 15 for the 500 civilians who will man the station.

Acker said another air force captain is due to arrive in Pittsburg today for similar duties.

The area controlled by each station will fan out, overlapping each other and extending into surrounding states, Acker said.

According to Acker the posts and filter stations will go on a 24-hour basis sometime after the results of the mock air raid are determined.

He said about 7,000 additional volunteers are needed to staff the posts and filter stations.

Death Penalty Is Okayed By Senate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS)—The Senate Wednesday unanimously approved the death penalty for spying in peacetime.

The change, provided in legislation sponsored by Judiciary Chairman McCarran, (D) Nev., was approved without objection and sent to the House.

The top penalty under present peacetime law, for espionage is 30 years. The Senate passed revision would make the penalty death or imprisonment for not more than 30 years, which is the wartime provision of present law.

Forecast Upward Climb In Farm Product Demand

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—(INS)—The Agriculture Department says that the demand for farm products will continue its current upward climb as the defense program gains momentum.

Military buying for the armed forces, procurement for foreign aid, acceleration of the defense program and resulting increases in employment and income are expected to swell the demand for farm goods all around.

Government buying for the armed forces and foreign aid will limit the supplies of some commodities available to the man on the street, but supplies of most farm products are said to be ample.

The department says: "Even if military procurement increases some in coming months, supplies of food available to civilians are expected to continue at about the same high level as in the past two years."

The experts believe that retail prices of farm foods the rest of this year will rise about three to four percent above the July level, but no more.

Corn Bartered

The Agriculture Department announces that it has bartered 215,000 bushels of corn for a "foreign-produced strategic and critical material."

But officials say that they are not permitted to tell what strategic material the government is getting for the corn, nor from which country.

Produce More Wool

The Bureau of Agriculture Economics reports the first increase in wool production since 1942. The quantity of wool shorn this year is estimated at 218 million pounds, about 1.3 million pounds more than last year.

New Cotton Law

Frank Woolley, deputy production and marketing administrator, says that the Cotton Bill passed by the House last week does not clear up inequalities in the cotton acreage law.

He says allotments are going to areas where they are not used. As an example, Woolley told the House Agriculture Committee that 2,500,000 acres of the 1950 national 21,500,000 acre allotment were not used for cotton.

Almond Board

The Agriculture Department has selected 10 members and alternates to serve on the Almond Control Board to administer the federal marketing agreement regulating the handling of almonds grown in California.

Grower members selected are: C. Edward Sullivan, Yuba City; Benjamin F. Goodwin, Manteca; C. Irvin Jones, Durham, Roy Uhl, Chico and F. W. Anderson, Merced, all of California.

Peanut Prices

The Agriculture Department says it will support the prices of the 1950 farmers stock peanut crop at a basic level of 10.8 cents a pound or about $216 a ton.

Farmers are eligible for the support price, set by law at 90 percent of parity, if they have not harvested peanuts in excess of the 1947 picked and threshed acreage on their farmers.

Sharp Rise In Crude Oil Output

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—(INS)—The American Petroleum Institute reported Wednesday a sharp rise in daily crude oil production and a decline in gasoline stocks in the week ended August 5.

According to the institute, daily crude oil output last week jumped 118,800 barrels to 5,640,350 barrels. This was one of the widest week-to-week increases in some time and reflected a sharp rise in allowable production of Texas crude oil, which showed a gain of 95,050 barrels over the preceding week's figure.

Gasoline stocks in the week ended August 5 recorded a decline of 311,000 barrels from revised figures for the week previous to 108,895,000 barrels. A week ago, gasoline stocks had shown a contra-seasonal gain of 161,000 barrels. Gasoline stocks outstanding at this time a year ago totaled 108,444,000 barrels.

Drive Slow—Children Move Fast!

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

UNPLEASANT HABITS

The Arnold knew that children go through different stages. But that didn't help matters much when their Robbie began spitting at people who displeased him! They had been understanding over his "No, I won't!" attitude; they had been patient when he walked along at a snail's pace looking in every shop window, and climbing up and down every step he could find. But, spitting was another matter!

Most of us would feel the same way. We can tell ourselves that such behavior is just another of the blind allies in learning to get along with others, and that the youngster with calm help will, in time, overcome these undesirable habits. But we still will clamp down on the "spitter" much harder than we do the "hitter" or even the "biter."

There's no easy solution. We can't ignore the way we feel about spitting. Our children, too, need to learn how people feel about it. Yet, if possible, we should avoid making the child feel as though he has committed an unpardonable sin. Without side-stepping the matter, we can deal with it calmly and unemotionally. And, we can be sure that this calmness is much more likely to bring about an end to spitting than if we should let the youngster know of our concern.

Two Hundred Pound Man Likes His Women Small

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(INS)—A Chicago housewife whose 240-pound husband drove away with the 95-pound wife of a neighbor promised Wednesday to look after the neighbor's 10-year-old daughter "at least until things are cleared up."

Mrs. Emily Eustice and Lucian Livings asked police to look for Thomas Eustice, 48, and Mrs. Helen Livings, 34.

Livings reported the couple drove away together in Eustice's car Saturday after his wife called at the Eustice home.

The two couples have been "good friends and neighbors" for four years, the husband reported.

But neither he nor Mrs. Eustice would predict what their attitudes will b if their spouses return.

Last winter, guards with machine guns were posted outside Sing Sing prison in New York to prevent inmates escaping across the frozen Hudson river.

Excellent Program By Local Symphony For Closing 'Pops'

A fascinating program was presented by the New Castle Symphony Orchestra at the Taggart stadium on Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock. Anthony Casbero directed the group of musicians in a pop concert that included several new works performed for the first time by the outstanding orchestra.

Completely captivating the crowd which witnessed the performance were selections by the late Jerome Kern's "Show Boat." His haunting melodies will live long in the memories of the public, and his familiar "Ol' Man River," "Make Believe," and "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man" definitely prove this fact. The lovely tunes from the masterpiece "Show Boat" will be sung and hummed for generations to come.

The gay, spirited Mexican folksongs, "Las Gaviotas." "Cielito Lindo," and "La Cucuracha" were included in the Mexican Overture by Isaac. Completely oblivious of the surroundings, the audience pictured in imagination the scenes suggested by "Zigany" by Nagy and "Winter Sunshine" by George Melachrino.

American tradition was displayed in the light melody "Alice Blue Gown." An unusual transcription of Stephen Foster's "Oh! Susanna" showed that the public does not soon forget the tunes of the "good old days."

All in all, the closing pop concert proved to be the most appreciated and successful concert of the current season. The citizens of New Castle are looking forward with anticipation to the first concert of the winter months.

Communist Paper Says General Dean Fled Into Hills

LONDON, Aug. 10.—(INS)—London Communist Daily Worker reported from North Korea today that missing American General William F. Dean was seriously wounded before his disappearance.

In a dispatch from its staff correspondent Alan Winnington, dateline "North Korean Advance Headquarters," The British Communist newspaper said that the General fled into the hills with five American soldiers during the battle for Taejon. He was said to have abandoned his cap and his insignia in his flight.

The dispatch added that the direction the group took is known and that the North Korean troops are searching "for him or his body."

(General Dean, commander of the U. S. 24th Division, had gone to the front during the fighting at Taejon July 20th. He was last reported July 21, aiding his troops carrying bazooka ammunition and leading a small group cut off by infiltrating Communist troops.)

It is false economy to buy cheap bed pillows. Only pillows filled with duck or goose feathers can give real sleeping comfort, because waterfowl feathers are buoyant and resilient, and give longer service.

Ten Days Of Pleasure

Community Chest Provides Recreation For 50 Girls

There are in New Castle today, 50 happy, healthier and contended girls, who have just completed 10 days of camping in the great outdoors.

The Community Chest of New Castle is the organization that made such a happy experience possible for these girls!

Through this organization, 50 underprivileged children were sent to camp, their fee taken care of by the local Community Chest. At camp the girls put aside their cares and forgot their unfortunate circumstances at home. They mingled with other campers and thoroughly enjoyed the 10-day camping spree at the YWCA camp at East Brook. No one—not even the counselors—knew who "these" girls were.

Camp Life New to Them

Camp life was a novelty for practically all of the girls. The girls rose early and participated with glee in all of the camp activities. And of these there were many.

There was swimming in an ideal pool during the hot days and early evenings. Overnight hikes were frequent, sport periods wherein games and events of all kinds were featured. Handicraft period was greatly enjoyed by the girls, who ranged from 5 to 15 years of age, and many of them made splendid articles which involved a lot of patience and work, but still lots of fun.

The Community Chest is gratified to know that through their efforts the girls at camp generally all gained weight. Most of these children needed the additional weight. Some of them gained from one to three pounds in the short length of time. Meals were served at the same time daily and hearty appetites soon put away a lot of good, warm and tasty food. Lights were out at 9 p. m., but by that time the girls were ready for bed after a hectic and busy day.

Campers, who were sent to camp by the Community Chest, were selected from the children's files of the Department of Public Assistance of 5 to 15 years of age.

The committee contacted the parents' by mail and the children were registered by a certain date.

"The Community Chest has just scratched the surface this year," said William R. Schmidt, executive director of the Community Chest. "There are approximately 1,800 children on the DPA files and these children have no form of recreation. The Community Chest would like to be able to send more girls and boys to camp (50 boys were also sent to the YMCA camp) if the Community Chest budget could afford it.

The Chest drive this year will start on October 10, with Homer D. Choate as chairman. It is hoped the drive goes "over the top," and all of this depends upon the people of New Castle.

Drive To Start

We want happy, healthy children. We want to give children who are victims of unhappy homes a little happiness and something to look forward to. The Community Chest will be able to send more children to camp—if citizens of New Castle open their hearts and send the drive way "over the top."

According to Mrs. R. G. Eakin, director of the YWCA camp, the girls were thrilled with camp life. A lot of them had never enjoyed the outdoor life and camping with other girls of their ages. Many of them expressed their appreciation in letters. Many stated that they wished they could attend next year, but they realized that other girls would be waiting for the same opportunity.

This experimental camping project of the Community Chest was successful. The children, happy and carefree, are proof that it was a great success. In future years the Community Chest would like to repeat this success story. It is up to you. The Community Chest has 12 agencies—the YWCA is only one of them. Together with the help of the local citizens, they will be able to make many more youngsters "the happiest kids in town."

Kiwanians Hear Ayers

Head Of Statuary Firm Is Speaker

W. J. Ayers, founder of the Ayers Statuary and Pottery Co., of this city, was the guest speaker of the New Castle Kiwanis Club, at their weekly luncheon meeting in The Castleton, Wednesday noon.

Mr. Ayers told about the humble beginning of his firm, which was started in the cellar of his home, on West Washington street, and which within a week or so, outgrew its quarters. The company is now housed in the old White School at the end of West Washington street, and an addition had to be built to this structure within a short time after occupancy. Sixty employes now work for the company, and they are kept busy supplying the 107 items in statuary and pottery, which the firm turns out.

Mr. Ayers' first venture was an oversized piggy bank, which went over big. Later, different other items were added to the plant's output, which now makes a diversified line of statuary and pottery.

He explained the various processes used in the manufacture of these items, which proved most interesting.

Four new Kiwanians were formally inducted into the local club, under the direction of A. Kenneth Hemer, chairman of the education committee. They were presented with their badges by E. Lee Marvin. The new members are: Lt. Winbert Sharp, of the Salvation Army; George Seyffert, plant manager of the Bell Telephone Co.; Dan Fisher, of Fisher Brothers Dry Goods Co., Inc.; and Louis Lutz, manager of the Penn Theater.

It was announced by Peter Grittle, chairman of the picnic committee, that the annual picnic for members and their families will be held at Dan Fisher's summer cottage at East Brook, on August 23.

Air Force Veteran Misses Graduation

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10—(INS)—A 38-year-old Charleston, W. Va., man missed graduation ceremonies at the Pittsburgh Institute of Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Wednesday.

Tuesday night he leaped to his death from the Liberty bridge in Pittsburgh. Police identified the student as Dana P. Hughes, a former Air Force corporal who had began studying under the GI Bill at the trade school a year ago.

His widow, Charlotte, said in Charleston that her husband "had a hard time adjusting himself" since being discharged from the service.

State W.C.T.U. Officer Speaks To Local Group

"Forward Out Of Error; Forward Into Light" was the theme of the 66th yearly convention of Lawrence County Woman's Christian Temperance Union that took place Wednesday in Croton Methodist church.

Mrs. Ella B. Black, state secretary of White Ribbon Recruits of the W.C.T.U., was the day's main speaker, her subject being "Our Greatest Problem." Mr. and Mrs. Black, whose home is in Indiana, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary on July 4, of this year. The speaker stated that the situation in Korea today goes back to the Yalta conference. Mrs. Black has traveled over our state doing W.C.T.U. work for the past ten years.

She said that no one has a right to say anything against the Constitution of the United States. The Constitution is to our country what the Bible is to the family. Mrs. Black is wondering for the first time what is ahead in the future for our nation. She asked the question, "What may we do about it?"

The speaker thinks that many housewives are not hoarding sugar. It is natural for women to buy large quantities of sugar for canning in the summer. Some were waiting for the price of it to come down and had small amounts on hand. Our country bought powdered eggs from Russia this year.

Adults should talk to young people about the dangers of taking one drink of alcohol, citing incidents of cocktail parties. Mrs. Black added that the W.C.T.U. supports largely the Pennsylvania School of Alcohol Studies. She stated that drinking and gambling go hand in hand.

Officers Installed

The state officer installed the following officers of Lawrence County W.C.T.U. for the coming year: president, Mrs. F. J. Fox; vice president, Miss Margaret Wilson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Glenn Hennon; recording secretary, Mrs. Paul M. McGaffic, and treasurer, Mrs. Floyd Worrell.

W. R. R. Service

Mrs. J. C. Pherson, county W.R.R. secretary, conducted an impressive ribbon tying service being assisted by Mrs. Black who took one of the babies in her arms and reminded the audience of the boys who are serving our country in Korea. Roses were presented to the following babies and their mothers by Mrs. Pherson: Paula Marie Reed, Tommy Joe Patton, Judy Mae Patton, Virginia Irene Cameron, and Jackie Cameron and Darlene May Cameron.

Mrs. H. F. Barber, delegate to the Pennsylvania School of Alcohol Studies at Juniata college, said that there was an enrollment of 101 in the classes, about one-half of the students being ministers. She stated that "Living in the world is an adventure." Mrs. Barber added that it is smart not to drink. Alcohol has no normal place in the human body. It does not give one a lift, is not a stimulant, but a depresant. Alcohol is a moral problem, crime and drinking often going together.

Miss Irma Allen, accompanied by Mrs. C. H. Teece, organist of the host church, sang "The Lost Chord."

Memorial Service

Mrs. John Hanford conducted an impressive memorial service for those members who died during the past year. Their names follow: Mrs. H. C. Stillings, Mrs. G. Y. Fike, Mrs. Jessie Edgar, Mrs. W. M. Hockenberry, Mrs. Mary Austa Donaldson, Mrs. J. A. Wagner, Mrs. Elizabeth Dight, Mrs. Jennie Eagleson, Mrs. Charles Houk, Mrs. Mortella Houk, Mrs. Anna Johnson and Mrs. Nellie Mattocks.

The service also honored the following: Mrs. Maude Parker Vincent LaFever, Mrs. Mary Staley, Mrs. J. G. Blim, Miss Minnie Jackson, Mrs. M. J. Bumgardner, Mrs. R. S. Mercer, Miss Anna B. Love and Miss Nellie Grinnen.

Devotions in the afternoon were led by Rev. Theodore Harsh, pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian church. Mrs. T. E. McCreary, Loyal temperance Legion secretary, presented Beverly Thompson who gave an excellent temperance reading.

Poster Contest

Awards for the poster contest were announced as follows: first, Fred Hartfelder, Croton union; second, Zoe Cover, Frances Willard union, and third, Clara Mae Stephenson, Plaingrove union.

Mrs. T. J. McFate served as pianist in the afternoon, while Miss Mary Pattison was pianist in the morning. Mrs. Scott Kirk led the singing. Mrs. Fox presided at the sessions.

'Ag' Crop Report To Show Progress

Food Supply Adequate; Cotton Under Quota

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(INS)—The nation today gets another look at the Agriculture department's farm crop production barometer.

The department's crop reporting board is scheduled to issue its monthly summer survey of the condition of many crops as of August 1, what advance they have made during the past month and what the harvest prospects are.

The report will show that generally farmers are producing more than adequate crops this year to assure sufficient supplies to carry the nation through a year of war or peace.

It is expected to back up statements by President Truman and secretary of Agriculture Brannan that the nation, in the current war period, is in extremely healthy condition food-wise — much better than the first months of World War II.

The crop report, a tight-mouthed secret until 3 p. m. today, will make a good guess of yield per acre, total production and acreage for harvest for corn, wheat, oats, barley, rye, buckwheat, flaxseed, rice sorghum grains, and hay among the grain and feed crops.

Production estimates will be made for dry beans and peas, soybeans peanuts, potatoes, sweet potatoes, tobacco, sugarcane, sugar beets, broomcorn and hops.

Estimates too, will be announced for harvests of apples, peaches, pears, grapes, cherries, apricots and pecans and for oranges, tangerines, grapefruit and lemons.

Rep. Werdel (R) Calif., says that the 1951 Cotton Quota Bill just passed by the House will discourage putting cotton to lands most suited to it.

The bill is now in the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Werdel charges that the bill "guarantees" a profit to the marginal farmer. Werdel thus agrees with Frank Woolley, deputy production and marketing administrator, who testified recently.

Werdel attacked a provision of the measure which holds that if 30 percent of a country's total land in crops is cotton-land, farmers can use only 30 percent of their farms for cotton.

Meanwhile, at the same hearing, two Texas congressmen expressed opposing views on the same cotton quota measure.

Rep. Mahon (D) Texas, says a certain provision applicable only to Texas was unfair, while Rep. Poage (D) Texas, holds that it is intended to strip the agriculture department of its leeway to make "discriminatory interpretations."

The provision of the bill in question is one which directs that in states where 1950 cotton plants were on more than three million acres, the 1951 quotas should be figured in with "war crops" such as flax and grain sorghums. Texas last year was the only state planning more than three million acres.

That section of the measure would reduce quotas in four south and west congressional districts, including the district Mahon represents, and the remaining 17 districts would receive increased cotton acreage.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Today bank deposits are near their peacetime peak. Farmers are reasonably prosperous. Few factories are idle. More men are employed than ever before and the people are better fed and better clothed. It is rightly said we have "unexampled prosperity". If our government cannot now live within its income, what will it do if we have a serious recession in business?

Today our public debt amounts to more than a quarter of a trillion dollars. Daily we are adding to it. The interest on the debt is five and a half billion dollars, which is more than all expenditures of government were in 1933.

To justify spending more than our income, some persons speak of what the government is doing for the "little fellow". Let me show you what the federal government is doing to the little fellow.

It is making the small man smaller. If the "little fellow" uses the telephone he pays a tax. If he travels by railroad or bus he pays a tax. If he buys an automobile the price inculdes a tax. When he buys gasoline he pays a tax. If he buys cigarettes he pays a tax. If he goes to a baseball game he pays a tax, and if his children go to a movie they pay a tax.—James F. Byrnes, South Carolina.

The first All-Star baseball game was played in Comiskey Park, Chicago, on July 6, 1933.

PARAMOUR ACCUSED IN 'LITTLE MISS MYSTERY' DEATH

MRS. IDA ROBINSON (left), 30, mother of "Little Miss Mystery," 6-year-old Louise Robinson whose murdered body was found in a brook, and William Harris (right), 34, Mrs. Robinson's paramour, are questioned in Hoboken, N. Police said Harris admitted striking the little girl, stuffing her body into a cardboard box and tossing her into West brook near Linden, N. J. (International)

Channel Tunnel Drive Renewed

LONDON—(INS)—New agitation is underway for fulfillment of the Anglo-French dream which Napoleon first broached 150 years ago—a tunnel under the English Channel between Britain and the Continent.

The latest clamor follows the appointment of Christopher Shawcross, K. C., former Socialist M. P., as director of the Channel Tunnel Company.

Forty-four-year-old Shawcross was reticent in speculating on the significance of his appointment. He merely commented:

"The Channel Tunnel will have to come in time."

Many times in the past far-sighted supporters of the scheme on both sides of the Channel have unsuccessfully tried to push through this vast and costly project. The channel at its narrowest point is 21 miles.

The farthest the scheme ever got was in 1876 when the British actually began construction on a 1¼-mile tunnel at Dover. Work stopped six years later owing to political and strategic considerations.

Since then every few years plans for a channel tunnel have been revived, but to date nothing definite has matured.

One of the biggest clamors of all-time was shortly after Western Union came into being. It was contended by eminent military experts that such a scheme would be of infinite value to Western Union both economically and strategically.

Estimates of the total cost of this huge project range from $200,000,000 to $500,000,000. A pilot tunnel would first have to be driven from Dover to Calais. This would take five years to build and would cost $60,000,000.

GAME TOO DANGEROUS

AMERILLO, Tex. — A court judge imposed $80 in fines on John Ishmael Rogers and Carter who, arrested for speeding and reckless driving, explained their actions in this manner: Each would put up $5, hop into his car, speed to a turning point, then race back. First to reach the starting point got the pot.

CREPT UP ON HIM

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Police caught Lee Roy Rogers, 24, burglarizing a safe because he concentrated so hard on the job. And anyway, he explained, he's slightly deaf and didn't hear them coming.

Senators Lose 9-8, In 13-Innings; Play Butler Here Tonight

Frank Wagner Goes Distance; Famiglietti Hits 10th Home Run; Aroused Senators Will Meet Tigers

New Castle's fiery young Senators made Niagara Falls travel 13 innings to win last night 9-8, in the final appearance of the New Castle team in the "Honeymoon City" this year.

The veteran Frank Wagner (10-4) went the distance for the locals, allowing nine hits, only one the last 4 innings, a home run ball that Danny Chepkauskus slammed over the fence. The Senators lost the series two games to one.

Ben Rossman Goes Tonight

Tonight the Senators will sent Ben Rossman (11-6) to the hill, to oppose the frisky Butler Tigers in the start of a four game series. Game time is 8:30 o'clock. The Butler team has been idle for three days. Their hurlers will be well rested.

Friday night the "United Engineering Unions" will sponsor the game for the Senators and have arranged for some fine entertainment, and an orchestra to liven up the occasion. Saturday will be "CIO-UAW No. 69 Bronze Workers Night" at Flaherty Field in honor of the Senators. Both games should draw packed stands.

Famiglietti Hits 10th Homer

Tommy Famiglietti, the star left-fielder of the Senators hit his 10th homer of the season last night at the Falls, in the sixth inning, the ball bouncing over the fence and causing quite a squabble. Tommy drove two mates—Dondero and Vizzini home on his mighty wallop.

Eugene Bilo, the Ellwood City speed merchant stole two more bases last night to run his season total to 64, just three shy of tying the all-time Mid-Atlantic league record of 67 set by Bob Dillinger. Bilo hopes to break the record in the series starting with Butler tonight.

Brilliant Mound Duel

Frank Wagner and Joe Promowicz hooked up in a brilliant mound duel which lasted 12½ innings until Chepkaukas' homer. The score was deadlocked at 8-8 when the Falls scored two runs in the seventh on Hank DiJohnson's two-run homer over the left field fence.

Promowicz hurled a two-hitter over the last seven full innings, facing only one over the minimum of 21 batters as the Citizens came up with three crucial doubleplays in that period.

Tough One, Frankie

New Castle scored three unearned runs in the second on two errors, two singles and a two-run double by Dondero and increased their lead to 4-1 in the third on two singles and a walk.

The Citizens picked up a pair in the third on two walks, a double and a single and after two walks and a single gave New Castle a 5-3 bulge in the top of the fifth, the Falls came up with three runs to forge in front. Three walks, a single, a double and an error accounted for the 6-5 edge.

Famiglietti Hits Homer

In the sixth New Castle climbed in front again as Dondero singled, Vizzini walked and Famiglietti hit a disputed homer over the left field fence. The Citizens claimed it bounced over for a ground rule double. Manager Walt Chipple was ejected for protesting too vigorously.

New Castle muffed an opportunity to score in the 12th as Mouton doubled to deep right center but was thrown out trying for third with no outs.

Lusty Song Wins Hambletonian Race

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—(INS)—Lusty Song today is the Frank Sinatra of the nation's three-year-old trotters.

This magnificent colt from the Hayes Fair Acres Stable of Duquoin, Ill., sang a sweet tune in the 25th running of the Hambletonian at Goshen, N. Y., to enrich his owners by exactly $40,537.72.

This represented the major portion of the $75,209.12 which was distributed among the first six horses in the field of 13 which fought for supremacy in the race which Reinsmen like to refer to as the Kentucky Derby of the trotters.

Phils And Tigers Maintain Their Leads; Indians And Browns Split

By HOWARD SIGMAND
(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—The youthful Philadelphia Phillies, zooming toward the realization of a 35-year-old dream, began a pivotal four-game series tonight in which figures distort the truth.

Preservation of Philadelphia's five game National League lead is the cause to which the Phillies must adhere when they engage the New York Giants, a fifth place club, nine games to the rear.

Phils Dump Bums

The Phillies dumped the Brooklyn Dodgers 6½ games off the pace as they swept the two-game set, 5 to 4. A bases-loaded setup, engineered around Granny Hamner's double, set the stage for Mike Goliat to drive home the winning run with a long fly in the eighth inning.

Bob Chipman, a refugee from Boston's bullpen, proved to be a New York Giant killer for the third time this season. Chipman snapped New York's eight game victory skein with a four-hit, 3-2 victory for the Braves.

The Cincinnati-Chicago and St. Louis-Pittsburgh games were rained out.

Tigers Win 5-3

Vic Wertz' 24th circuit clout with a mate aboard in the eighth inning gave the Detroit Tigers a 5 to 3 triumph over the Chicago White Sox and allowed the Bengals to stay three games ahead in the American League.

Big Vic Raschi was the show as the New York Yankees edged the Boston Red Sox, 2 to 1. Raschi won his fourteenth game with his second straight three-hit performance.

Indians-Browns Split

Al Benton won a game and lost one as the Cleveland Indians split a twi-night doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns.

Two homers with a man aboard by Larry Doby paced the Tribe to a 4 to 3 win in the opener and Benton was the winner in relief. The Browns took the night game 10 to 8 when Ken Wood hit a two-run homer off Benton in the eighth, again as a reliver. St. Louis had scored eight runs in the fifth. Al Rosen hit homer No. 30 for the Indians.

Joe Tipton's single with the bases loaded in the eleventh inning enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to nose out the Washington Senators, 7 to 6.

Third U.P. Tops Moravia-Jackson

Third U. P. defeated Moravia-Jackson, 8-4, in the first game of the final playoff series in the Church Softball League at Deshon field Wednesday.

The same two teams will play tonight at Deshon field at six o'clock.

Last night's game was well played and close. Tindall is charged with loss and Chambers gets the win.

Kerestly lathered a long homer for Third U. P. The winners also got good hitting from Henderson and Fletcher. Wear and Firster hit well for the losers.

Committee To Talk Over Senior Day

Frank Summers, president, and his Senior Golf Association committee will meet at Castle Hills club house at 8:30 o'clock Friday night to talk over further plans for the big annual Senior Day at Castle Hills Wednesday, August 30.

Tickets for the event are going quite rapidly, with prospects of a large field teeing off on the 30th. Plans are under way to make this the biggest and best Senior Day ever attempted.

All men 50 and over are eligible to take part. A big dinner will follow a day of golfing events.

Swanson To Be In Good Shape

Holds K.O. Victory Over Jackie Lyons

"Johnny Swanson will be in the best condition of his life," Joe Netro, his manager, telephoned from Buffalo last night to Tommy Leach, matchmaker of the Jefferson A. C.

Swanson is to fight Elkins Brothers, local heavyweight slugger in an eight round bout August 17 night at Flaherty field.

Netro said Swanson is training daily with Freddie Beshore who battles Ezzard Charles, world heavyweight champion soon.

According to Matchmaker Leach, one of Swanson's wins was a knockout of Jackie Lyons, who stopped Billy Pozza, in Chicago.

Robinson Easily Defeats Charley Fusari; LaMotta Watches, And Gets Booed

By JOHN BARRINGTON
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 10—Sugar Ray Robinson — having proved nothing in the welterweight division can beat him except the weight limit—renewed his demands today for a shot at the Middleweight Boxing Championship.

Robinson disposed of challenger Charlie Fusari last night with a clean-cut 15-round decision that left his blond foe bleeding and befuddled though still gamely on his feet. Sugar Ray lost only one round and another was called even.

For his labors Robinson was paid exactly $1, the balance of his purse going to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund, for benefit of which the bout was staged in Jersey City's Roosevelt Stadium.

A celebrity-studded crowd of 25,000 saw the fight and paid $150,000, approximately one-third of which went to the Runyon Fund.

Robinson Master

Robinson controlled the fighting throughout. Only in the fourth round and for a part of the 12th did Fusari look the part of a challenger for Sugar Ray. Robinson opened a cut beside Fusari's left eye in the second round with a stiff right, and he bloodied Charlie's nose in the eighth.

The only thing Robinson didn't have—after the rigors of making the 147-pound limit, ounce by sweating ounce—was a punch authoritative enough to knock out the rugged Fusari.

La Motta Booed

Among those present also was Middleweight Champion Jake La Motta, whose introduction gave the fans a chance to make with a few boos. Before the fight began, Columnist Walter Winchell, treasurer of the Runyon Fund, tried to put La Motta on the spot by asking if he intended to fight Robinson..

La Motta, sidestepping blandly, said he'd be glad to meet Sugar Ray—or any other challenger. He didn't say when or where.

In his dressing room after the fight, Robinson was more explicit. He said:

"I'll fight La Motta anytime and any place—even in the middle of Times Square."

In the face of arguments springing up anew today as to whether the American League is stronger than the National you can make your own argument, any way you like, from the statistics.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

FRANKIE FRISCH, of the Cubs, has had to take a lot of "riding" because of some managerial moves but he has proved through his coaching of Paul Minner of New Wilmington that he is smarter than all the so-called intellectuals of the Dodger college, according to Chilly Doyle, baseball writer for the Sun-Tele. Chilly says the Dodger outfit really "booted one" when they let Minner get away. . . . Angelo Casacchia has received a postcard from Arthur Sirianni of Ellwood City, stating he witnessed a bull-fight in Mexico. . . . Wilbur Patterson of this city and his father, of New Wilmington, had nice catches of bass and wall-eyes at Baum's eddy, Allegheny river recently. . . . T. Bukowski and T. Balik, local tutors, plugged at night recently at a local lake. They got 12 strikes, and caught six bass. One of Bukowski's catches was an 18-inch, three-pound bass. The bass hit River Runts, Shads, Jitter-Bugs, Flat-Fish and the Hidden Spook. Two very nice bass hit the Hidden Spook but were lost before they could be landed. . . . Shenango Valley Beagle clubbers are looking forward to the fall trials. . . . Dick Davis and Joe Medure are hustling the All-Stars preliminary to the August 22, Senators vs. Erie Sailors, Mid-Atlantic setto at Flaherty field. . . . Socks Welsh is guardian of a hot corner. However, instead of guarding third base on a baseball field, he protects young and old from sliding into motor cars at Mill and Washington streets. His hobby is drumming. . . . Joe O'Leary has performed a meritorious task with the American Legion team. . . . Years ago it was not uncommon to hear a game rooster crow and to see a main. It was not uncommon to see a main hereabouts. However, nowadays few game roosters crow, and what mains are staged are held in neighboring states. . . . When league grounds were in South Mill street it was not uncommon for some businessmen to close shops and "take in" the game.

MORE THAN a thousand bicycles have been registered here. Years ago a bicycle race was a thrilling event, the last such event having been held at the New Castle Fair grounds track. Some enterprising bicycle sales agency could do worse than arrange for races here. . . . Bill Robinson, former New Castle high grid star and World War 1 captain, is in California. . . . Dyed-in-the-wool fight fans are already taking out their reservations for the Elkins Brothers vs. Johnny Swanson biff and bang show August 17, at Flaherty field. . . . Attorney Charlie Ross played baseball at Grove City college. . . . Fiz Rodenbaugh's fiery baseball chatter has been missing on the field for a year or two. . . . Jimmie Freeman is a Washington, D. C., bluecoat. . . . Billy Clark performed as a prize-ring referee years ago, and helped Eddie Weygant train. . . . When Emmett Rocco was riding toward the Toboggan, his brother, Benny, was offered $7,500 for Em' to box Ernie Schaaf in New York. Fearing Em' would be injured, Benny said "No". Later Ernie died after a bout. . . . City Baseball loop managers will meet at nine o'clock Friday night at Carm's, West Washington street, to arrange to play off postponed games and establish accurate statistics of the circuit. . . . Answer to query: Jack Dempsey vanquished Jess Willard as world's heavyweight king July 4, 1919, at Toledo, O. Ad Thatcher, promoter of the bout, often visited here when the Jolly Bowl operated. He was interested in Luis Carpentero and other boxers. Jack Ryan, who died some time ago and who managed Jimmie Dunn for a time, and Thatcher were friends. . . . Joe Dukes can reminisce early Cascade Park days when open air cars made the trip to the park via the Hamilton street and Cascade boulevard route. . . . Larry Dwyer was acquainted with a multitude of sports' topnotchers when he was an employe of Dal Hazen's eatery in Apple alley. In Larry's day, Billy Glenn's peanut wagon stood at Washington street and Apple alley.

Eagles Favored Over All-Stars

First Game Of Season Friday

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(INS)—The Philadelphia Eagles arrive in Chicago today for a day of pregame rest and a secret workout under the lights of Soldier Field where they meet the college football All-Stars tomorrow night.

The National pro league champions rank two-touchdown favorites over the college stars despite the loss of Pat McHugh, the Eagles' ace pass defender, due to a knee injury.

Eagles Ready

In Delafield, Wis., the All-Stars scheduled a brief tapering-off drill—with emphasis on the passing of first-string quarterback Travis Tidwell to the best lineup of receivers any all-star team has had in years.

Eagles' coach Earle (Greasy) Neale said Clyde Scott probably will start at right half in place of Bosh Pritchard, who was slowed by a knee injury in recent drills but is expected to see action against the All-Stars.

Pirates And Cubs Open 5-Game Series

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 10.—(INS)—Their 10-game losing streak kept intact by rain, the Pittsburgh Pirates tonight take on the Chicago Cubs in the first of a five-game series at Forbes field.

The scheduled contest with St. Louis last night was postponed. It will be played the night of Sept. 1.

Vernon Law (1-4) is slated to oppose the Cubs' Bob Rush (9-14) or Johnny Schmidt (9-10).

Strickler Wants Communist Ousted

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—(INS)—A "housecleaning" of communists in the federal government was demanded today by Maj. Gen. Daniel B. Strickler as a "major step toward national security".

Strickler, commander of the 28th infantry division and Pennsylvania's lieutenant-governor, reported to the state American Legion convention as chairman of its national defense committee.

The infantry expert urged the Legion to push for "a definite stand" from congressmen "to clean house first in our national set-up so as not to even risk any danger in our present or future conflicts by any kind of inefficiency undermining or aiding the enemy that may be caused by un-American officials.

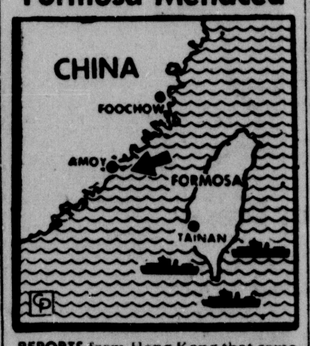
Strickler said the Legion's 3,000,000 members in America "must be more alert than ever to stamp out communism in thousands of communities where "the Legion lives and dwells."

Sen. Francis J. Myers (D) Pa., warned the nation it will have to "put a thinner coat of icing on the civilian cake" while building a total war footing.

A-Bomb Is Reason

THE U. S. is better prepared for "all-out war" than results in Korea indicate, Chairman Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D), Wyoming, of joint congressional economic committee, tells Congress. He said the nation's 5-year stockpile of atom bombs is one reason. (International)

Formosa Menaced



REPORTS from Hong Kong that some 150,000 Chinese Red troops had been seen mobilizing at Amoy (arrow) gave rise to new fears that an attempted invasion of Formosa was near. The recent visit of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to the island was believed to have concerned the threatened push. U. S. warships are on guard. (Central Press)

Tricky Red Maneuvers Halt Advancing Yanks

By FRANK CONNIFF
(I. N. S. War Correspondent)

WITH ADVANCING AMERICAN TROOP AT MASAN, Aug 10.—The same slippery tactics of infiltration that paid off so handsomely on offense are being used by the Reds to slow the American attack in South Korea.

Small groups of communists armed with mortars and light machine guns wind their way inside our lines under cover of darkness.

At dawn they open fire on American troops and vehicles traveling along our sole lifeline to the front—a narrow road twisting dangerously between the Korean hills.

Tough and cagey groups of this type threw up a roadblock just five miles from Masan at first light Tuesday.

Halt Movement

It was enough to disrupt communications for hours, halt convoys of essential men and materials for miles around and require use of tanks, planes and heavy artillery before it was liquidated.

We came along in a truck shortly after the attack on the roadblock began and had a firsthand view of the tedious process of eliminating it.

Dive bombers spraying their rockets into enemy hillside positions and light tanks and 105 caliber guns firing at point-blank range added up to an exciting fireworks show.

Classic War Gone

But it proved once again that classical military tactics represent a lost art in Korea.

"I hope there are 3,000 of them up there," said Lieut. Bill DeMarco of Richmond Hill, N. Y., as we stood beside vehicles massed before the roadblock.

"Nobody can win with those rockets and shells exploding in such a small area.'

There was a measure of irony in Lieut. DeMarco's appreciation of the situation.

If 3,000 communists were actually in the bombed area, the show would have been worth the time and expense involved.

As it happened there was a mere handful and they not only refused to be silenced—a few seconds after the planes disappeared their machine guns were chattering as glibly as before.

"We will just have to learn to fight them in the hills," said Lieut. George Morgan of Houston, Tex. "Staying on the roads is just inviting them to chop us to pieces."

REGISTER—OR ELSE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 10.—(INS)—Draft delinquents in the Philadelphia area will learn within the next 10 days that "it is no joke" when the government orders them to register for possible military service.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Edward A. Kallick said Wednesday his office will be ready to start action within that time.

"Many men in this area," he said, failed to comply with draft orders.

"We cannot allow this condition to continue. It appears there are some young men who consider this a joke.

"Within the next 10 days they will know that the wheels of prosecution of such cases are in motion."
